authors' acknowledgements

We owe a continuing debt to the many people whose advice and comments helped us with earlier versions of this material. The present book has benefited enormously from the hard work and professionalism of our editorial and design team at Oxford University Press. In particular, we would like to acknowledge the contributions of our remarkable editor, Sarah Parsons, and our equally remarkable designer, Phil Hargraves, who have made it possible for us to write the book that we wanted to, and whose input is evident on every page.

introduction

Who is this book for?

The Oxford English Grammar Course (Intermediate Level) is for all intermediate and upper-intermediate learners who want to improve their knowledge of English grammar.

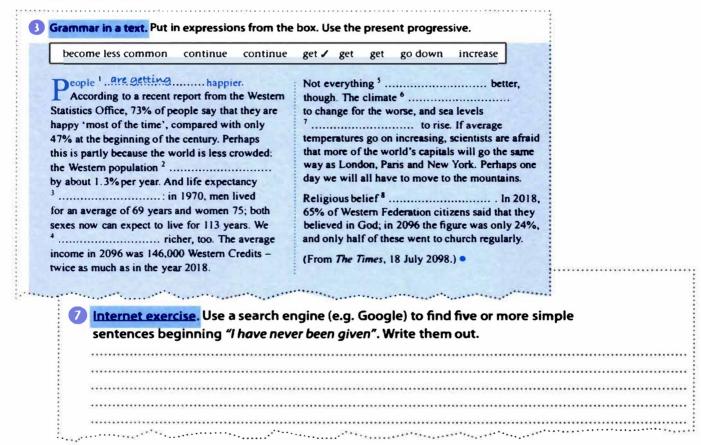

What kind of English does the book teach?

This book teaches the grammar of spoken and written British English. But it can also be used by students of American, Australian or other kinds of English – the grammatical differences are very small and unimportant.

How is the book organised?

There are 22 sections. A section covers one part of English grammar (for example: making questions and negatives; present tense verbs; problems with nouns). Each section contains:

- a presentation page which introduces the point of grammar
- several short units with explanations and exercises
- two 'More Practice' pages: these include 'Grammar in a text' exercises and internet exercises
- a short revision test.

Two levels

Some units are marked 'Revise the Basics': these revise elementary points of grammar which may still cause problems. More advanced units are marked 'Level 2'.

Using the book to study particular points

If you want to know more about a particular point (for example present tenses, the difference between should and must, or the position of adverbs), look in the index (pages 377–386) to find the right unit(s). Read the explanations and do the exercises. Check your answers in the answer key (pages 329–376).

Using the book for systematic study

If you are working without a teacher, we suggest:

- 1 DON'T go right through the book from beginning to end some parts will be unnecessary for you.
- 2 Decide which sections you most need to study. Section 1, 'be and have', for example? Section 8, 'questions and negatives'? Section 19, 'relatives'? Or other sections?
- 3 Go to the pages that you need. Read the grammar explanations, do the exercises, and check your answers in the answer key (pages 329–376).
- 4 In some units there are 'Grammar and vocabulary' exercises for students who would like to learn more words. Try these as well if you want to.
- 5 There are also some 'Do it yourself' exercises, which will give you a chance to discover rules for yourself.
- 6 Do some or all of the exercises in the 'More Practice' pages.
- 7 Go to the revision test at the end of the section, and try some or all of the questions.
- 8 Check your answers. If you still have problems, look at the explanations again.

Website

On the website there are tests which will help you to decide what you need to study, or to find out how well you have learnt the different points of grammar. There are also extra exercises and games to give you more practice on some of the points.

Pronunciation

The 'Pronunciation for grammar' CD-ROM will help you to pronounce structures fluently, with good rhythm and stress.

Examinations

This book teaches all of the grammar (and more!) that is needed for Common European Framework Levels B1 and B2 and is suitable for learners studying for Cambridge FCE.

If you know everything in the book, will you speak perfect English?

No, sorry!

- 1 Not many people learn foreign languages perfectly. (And not many people need to.) But this book will help you to speak and write much more correctly.
- 2 Books like this give short practical explanations. They cannot tell you the whole truth about English grammar, and they cannot give you enough practice to get all the difficult points right. If you follow the rules in this book, you will not make many mistakes. But you will probably need to practise using the structures in different situations. (The website material will help with this.) You will find more complete information about difficult points in the Advanced Level of the Oxford English Grammar Course, or in Michael Swan's Practical English Usage (Oxford University Press).
- 3 Grammar is not the only important thing in a language. You also need a wide vocabulary, and very important you need a lot of practice in listening and speaking, reading and writing. Remember: this is a grammar practice book, not a complete English course.

With our best wishes for your progress in English.

SECTION 1 be and have

GRAMMAR SUMMARY

be (am/are/is/was/were)

- We can use adjectives, nouns or expressions of place after be.
 She is early. I'm tired. Are you a student? Is anybody at home?
- We can use be to talk about age, size, height, weight and colour.
 My sister's 22. What size are your shoes? I'm 1 metre 85 and 80 kilos.
 What colour are the baby's eyes?
- We use there + be to introduce things: to tell people that they exist.
 There's a good film on TV tonight.
 There are some people at the door.
- Be can be an auxiliary verb in progressive tenses (see pages 14, 41) and passives (see page 94–95).
 It is raining. This was made in 1850.

have (have/has/had)

- We can use have to talk about possession, relationships and some other ideas.
 Do you have a pair of walking boots?
 I don't have any children.
- Have is often used with got.
 I've got a headache.
- And we can use have to talk about some kinds of actions.
 I'm going to have breakfast.
 Let's have a party.
- Have can also be an auxiliary verb in perfect tenses (see Section 5).
 I haven't heard from Alan.
 I thought that I had seen her before.

'People can have it in any colour – as long as it's black.'
(Henry Ford, talking about the Model T Ford car)

'The future is black.'
(James Baldwin)

'The so-called white races are really pinko-grey.'
(E M Forster)

'I am black, but O! my soul is white.' (William Blake)

'Eyes too expressive to be blue, too lovely to be grey.'
(Matthew Arnold)

'The East is red.'
(Chinese communist slogan)

'Don't throw away your old shoes until you have got new ones.' (Proverb)

'All the world's a stage and all the men and women merely players. They have their exits and their entrances.' (Shakespeare: As You like It)

'Be contented when you have got all you want.'
(Holbrook Jackson)

'I've got plenty of nothing and nothing's plenty for me.' (Gershwin: Porgy and Bess)

'In the beginning there was nothing, and it exploded.'
(Terry Pratchett)

THE MOST COMMON STRUCTURES WITH THERE + BE there will be there is/are there was/were there had been there is/are going to be there has/have been is there, are there etc Questions: Contraction: there's (pronounced /ðəz/, like the beginning of the zoo) We use there is to say that something exists (or doesn't exist) somewhere or at some time. There is a hole in my sock. There's snow on the mountains. There are two men at the door. Once upon a time there were three little pigs. There will be rain tonight. There has never been anybody like you. In an informal style we often use there's before a plural noun. There's some grapes in the fridge. Put in the correct form of there is(n't). 1 no water in the Atacama desert. 2 no railways in the 18th century. 3 Once upon a time a beautiful princess. 4 Tomorrow snow. 5 some soup, if you're hungry. 6 any potatoes? 7 wars all through history. 8 many tigers left in the wild. 9 an accident – can I use your phone? 10 I'm afraid time to see Granny. 11 Do you know if any tickets left? 12 a letter for me yesterday? 13 going a test tomorrow. 14 I'm sorry, but any rooms free. 15 How many US Presidents since 1900? 16 I don't think any reason to worry. 17 a meeting tomorrow: everybody's away. 19 going a general election soon, do you think? 20 Why so much rain in the last two months? There is introduces indefinite subjects. Compare: There's a window open. The window's open. (NOT There's the window open.) Complete the sentences with your own ideas. 1 In 1800 there weren't any 2 500 years ago there more about there is There seems to be a delay.

THERE IS: MORE COMPLICATED STRUCTURES with seem/appear There seems to be a delay. with modal verbs There may be a problem. There must be a car park somewhere. with certain/sure/likely Is there likely to be a test? There's no point in asking questions. with need/sense/point/use with something/anything/nothing + wrong Is there anything wrong? infinitive I don't want there to be any trouble. I'd like there to be more hours in the day. There will be enough, won't there? in question tags There were some children playing in the garden. with auxiliary be (= Some children were playing ...)

Put the beginnings and ends together.

- 0 According to the forecast,
- 1 I can't see how to open the door.

10 a funny smell in the kitchen.

have with got and do We haven't got / don't have time.

Have can be used to talk about possession, relationships, characteristics and similar ideas. The short forms I have, have I?, I have not etc are unusual in an informal style.

Instead, we generally use forms with have got or do... have.

Have got is not present perfect in this use. It means exactly the same as have.

INSTEAD OF	WE USE
I/you etc have	I've got, you've got etc
have I/you? etc	have I got? etc OR do I have? etc
I/you etc haven't	I haven't got etc OR I don't have etc had I/you? etc	did I have? etc
I/you etc hadn't	I didn't have etc

We haven't got much time. (More natural than We haven't much time.)

Do you have today's paper? (More natural than Have you today's paper?)

Did Lily have your keys? (More natural than Had Lily your keys?)

Got-forms are most common in the present. The past forms I/you etc had are more common without got.

I had a bad cold last week.

Do and got are not used together. (NOT Do you have got any children?)

SECTION 2 present tenses

GRAMMAR SUMMARY

SIMPLE PRESENT: I work, she works, he doesn't work etc

PRESENT PROGRESSIVE: I am working, she is working, he isn't working etc

English has two 'present' tenses.

 We use the simple present mostly to talk about things that are always true, and things that happen repeatedly.

My aunt lives in Leeds. I don't work on Saturdays. Dogs eat meat.

 We can use the simple present in commentaries, instructions, stories and jokes, to describe events that happen one after another.

Smith passes to Peters, Peters passes to Ollis, Ollis shoots - and it's a goal! First you break three eggs into a bowl. You add butter, salt and pepper. Then you take a fork ... This man goes into a pub, and he says to the barman ...

• We use the present progressive (or 'present continuous') to talk about things that are happening just around the time when we speak.

Look! The dog's eating your shoe. I'm working hard these days.

- We use the present progressive to talk about changes that are happening. Prices are going up. Transport is getting worse.
- We can also use the present progressive to talk about the future (see pages 27, 30). I'm seeing Lucy tomorrow.

JUST WORDS

I hate you I love you you get on my nerves you're destroying me darling don't leave me it's your fault you always you never darling you never listen to me don't listen to me it's just words.

Why computers are like women:

Nobody understands the language that they use when they talk to other computers.

They never tell you what is wrong; and if you don't know, you're in trouble.

They remember your smallest mistakes for ever.

Why computers are like men:

They know a lot of things but they are very stupid.

After you get one for yourself, you soon see a better one.

They like to go fast but they always crash.

	l/you/we/they do not work he/she/it does not work	l am not , you are not etc work ing

- things that are always true
- things that happen all the time, repeatedly, often, sometimes, never etc.

You live in North London, don't you? No thanks, I don't smoke. Chetford Castle stands on a high hill. Alice works for an insurance company. What do frogs eat? I play tennis every Wednesday. The sun rises in the east.

- things that are happening now
- things that are happening around now

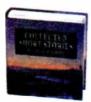

My sister's living with me just now. Look - Ann's smoking a cigar. Why is that girl standing on the table? Phil's not working at the moment. Hurry up! We're waiting for you. 'What are you doing?' 'I'm writing letters.' Why are you crying? What's wrong?

Here are some exchanges from an interview between an American journalist and a French film star. Can you complete them with the correct tenses?

1	'How do you start work on a film?' 'I the script and notes.' (read; make
2	'Inotes of our interview. I hope you don't mind.' 'No, that's OK.' (make)
3	'What languages?' 'English, French and Spanish.' (you speak)
4	'I'm glad we this interview in English. My French isn't very good.' (do)
5	'Who that guitar?' 'My son, when he has time.' (play)
6	'Who the piano upstairs?' 'My sister. She's got a concert tomorrow.' (play)
7	'What?' 'I think it's a piece by Mozart.' (she play)
8	' anything else?' 'The violin. She's very musical.' (she play)
9	'Your daughter's very keen on sport, isn't she?' 'She tennis.' (play)
0	'Where is she now?' 'She tennis, as usual.' (play)
1	'What's that delicious smell?' 'My husband
2	'Is that usual?' 'Yes, normally I and my husband
3	'What a lovely clock!' 'It, I'm afraid – it's been broken for years.' (not work)
4	'Could I use your phone?' 'I'm afraid it at the moment.' (not work)

Remember that some verbs are most often used in simple tenses, not progressive, even if we mean 'just now'. I like this weather. (NOT I'm liking this weather.) What does he want? (NOT What is he wanting?)

Circle the correct verb forms.

- 1 I think / am thinking you're right.
- 2 What do you look / are you looking at?
- 3 Do you know / Are you knowing that woman's name?
- 4 I don't understand / am not understanding this letter.
- 5 Why do you drive / are you driving so fast?
- 6 What do you mean / are you meaning?
- 7 I hate / am hating this music.
- 8 Do you talk / Are you talking to me?
- 9 I don't remember / am not remembering Andrea's phone number.
- 10 It rains / is raining again.
- 5 DO IT YOURSELF Write a rule in your own language to explain the difference between the two English present tenses. If you can work with other students who speak your language, compare your rule with theirs.
- 6 Choose the correct form of the cartoon caption.

'I stand / am standing under your foot.'

NOTE: We don't use a present tense to say how long something has been going on (see page 56).

I've known her for years. (NOT I know her for years.)

present progressive for changes Prices are going up.

We use the present progressive for changing and developing situations.

The climate is getting warmer. (NOT The climate gets warmer.)

My English is getting better and better.

simple present: instructions etc You take the first left

We use the simple present to describe events that happen one after another in commentaries and demonstrations. We also use the simple present to ask for and give instructions.

Calvin passes to Peters, Peters to O'Malley, Lucas intercepts, Lucas to Higgins, Higgins shoots - and it's a goal! First I put a lump of butter into the frying pan and light the gas; then while the butter's melting I break three eggs into a bowl ...

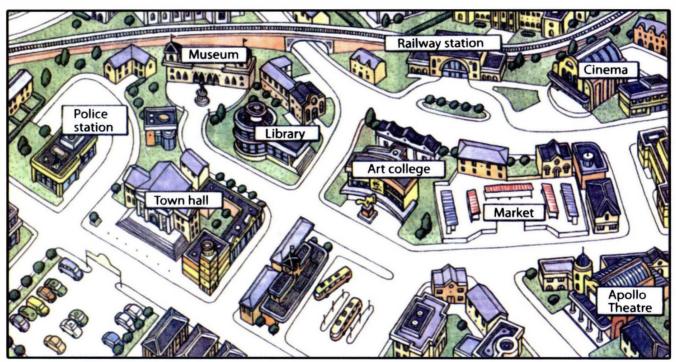

'How do I get to the station?' 'You go straight on for half a mile, then you come to a garage, you turn left and then you take the first right."

1) Look at the map and follow the directions.

When you come out of the station you turn right. Then you take the first left and keep straight on till you come to a T-Junction. You turn right and keep straight on till you get to a crossroads, and then turn right again.

We often tell stories and jokes with present tenses in an informal style.

We use the simple present for events – things that happen one after another.

We use the present progressive for background – things that are already happening when the story starts, or that continue through part of the story.

There's this Scotsman, you see, and he's walking through the jungle when he meets a gorilla. And the gorilla's eating a snake sandwich. So the Scotsman goes up to the gorilla and says ...

SECTION 3 talking about the future

GRAMMAR SUMMARY

the most common ways to talk about the future

There are three common ways to talk about the future in English:

with the going to structure.

I'm really going to tell her what I think of her.

with the present progressive.

We're meeting Malcolm tomorrow.

· with will.

The treasurer will be in the office from 9.00 till 2.00.

We use going to or the present progressive especially when the future has some present reality: for example to talk about plans that we have already made.

Will can also be used when we decide, agree, promise or refuse, and in requests.

There's the doorbell.' 'I'll go.' 'Please write every week.' 'Of course I will.'

She won't come out of the bathroom. Will you get some milk while you're out?

We can sometimes use the simple present to talk about the future.

Her plane arrives at 15.30. I'll phone you when I know something.

I'll see you tomorrow if I have a chance.

other ways to talk about the future future progressive

This time tomorrow I'll be lying on the beach.

be + infinitive

The President is to visit Scotland in September.

future in the past

I didn't realise what would happen.

future perfect

I'll have finished the job by supper time.

future perfect progressive

Next summer I'll have been studying English for six years.

The future progressive, future perfect and future perfect progressive are not very common. They are included here for the sake of completeness.

'Separate futures, please.'

revise the basics: going to

We often use present verb-forms to talk about the future. For example, we say that something is going to happen. This happens when we can see the future in the present – when a future situation is starting, or clearly on the way.

Look - it's going to rain.

Look at the pictures, what is going to happen	f .
	2 3 3 3 3
4 5 5
He is going to dive.	4

We often use going to for plans and intentions, especially in conversation.

We're going to get a new car soon. When are you going to get your hair cut? I'm going to keep asking her out until she says 'Yes'.

2	Put the verbs in the right places to complete the sentences. Use going to .
	Note: there are too many verbs.

1	Jane is going to study music in Vienna. She's to become a professional pianist. This summer, she's three months studying German. (spend; try; work; study)
2	Max is maths and science for his school-leaving exams.
	Then he's the summer learning to fly. In the autumn, he's a two-year training course for airline pilots. (start; spend; go; do)
3	Jennifer's eight, and she doesn't know what she's One day she says she's a dancer, and the next she says she's with animals. This summer, she's with her aunt in America. (take; work; do; stay; be) 4	Annie is the house this summer. Then she's two weeks walking in Scotland. In the autumn, she's a new job as a translator. (start; decorate; spend; play)

3	Write some things that you are going to do in the future.

revise the basics: present progressive for future

We often use the present progressive to talk about future personal arrangements and plans that are already fixed now, especially when we give the time, date, and/or place.

'What are you doing this evening?' 'I'm washing my hair.'

My car's having a service next week. We're going to Spain in June. Did you know I'm getting a new job? What are we having for dinner?

Look at the diary and correct the sentences.

1	She's playing tennis on Sunday afternoon.
2	Matthew is coming to see her on Sunday morning.
3	She's having lunch with James at 12.30 on Tuesday.
4	She's flying to Rotterdam on Thursday.
5	She's meeting Mrs Parsons in the London office.
6	She's going to the meeting with Mrs Parsons by car.
7	She's going to a funeral on Wednesday afternoon.
8	She's meeting the accountants at 12.00 on Monday.

2	Write some sentences about your plans for the coming week.

'Hi, it's me. Listen. It's David's birthday, so a few million of us are going out for a meal. Are you interested?'

revise the basics: will-future

We use will to give or ask for information about the future, when there is no reason to use a present verb-form (see pages 26–27, 30–31).

We will need the money on the 15th. Will all the family be at the wedding? It will be spring soon. She'll be here in a few minutes.

We often use will to predict the future - to say what we think, guess or calculate will happen.

Tomorrow will be warm, with some cloud in the afternoon.

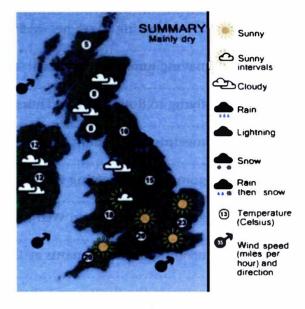

Who do you think will win? You'll never finish that book.

GRAMMAR AND VOCABULARY: weather. Look at the map and complete the weather forecast. Use some of the words in the box, once or more than once.

> cold earthquakes be dry east hurricanes ice lightning north rain south thunder warm snow will be winds wet will

Tomorrow will mainly but there some in the north. There be strong from the south-west later in the day. It will be quite in the south, but Scotland cold, and in the of Scotland the rain during the afternoon.

2) Write your own weather forecast for the place where you are.

We usually say I don't think ... will, NOT I think ... won't.

I don't think she'll be late. (NOT USUALLY I think she won't be late.)

What do you think will happen? Make your own predictions, with I think or I don't think.

I think it will rain tomorrow. (rain)
I don't think I'll get money in the post tomorrow. (get)
1 it tomorrow. (snow)
2 i a letter from America tomorrow. (get)
3 i rich in ten years. (be)
4 i famous in ten years. (be)
5 people English everywhere in the year 2100. (speak)

NOTE: We can say I shall and we shall instead of I will and we will. There is no difference of meaning in modern English. Will is more common.

[→] For another use of shall, see page 82. For will in requests, promises etc, see page 29.

will in decisions, promises etc OK, I'll go.

We can use will when we decide, agree or promise to do things. We don't use the simple present in these cases.
We'll buy the tickets; you can buy supper afterwards. (NOT We buy ·) You'll get your money tomorrow. (NOT You get ·) I promise I'll stop smoking. (NOT promise stop smoking.) I'll hit you if you do that again. (NOT hit you if)
We often use will to announce a decision at the moment when we make it.
There's the doorbell.' 'OK, I'll go.' (NOT + go.)
Won't can be used to talk about refusals.
He won't talk to anybody. The car won't start.
Complete the sentences with verbs from the box. Use 'll or won't.
answer call come drive ✓ eat go send tell tell wash write
▶ I .'ll drive
1 I the cups. You can dry them. 7 I promise I to you every week.
2 I'm tired. I think I to bed now. 8 That child out of the bathroom.
3 She us what's wrong. 9 If you don't get out of here, I
4 The cat I think it's ill. the police.
5 'The phone's ringing.' 'I it.' 10 I you all the papers on Friday.
Will you ? can introduce instructions, orders and requests. Would you ? is softer, and can be used to make requests more polite.
Will you get me a paper while you're out?
Will you be quiet, please?
Would you watch the children for a few minutes?
Use Will you? to tell somebody to: clean the bathroom. Will you clean the bathroom? deliver the furniture on Friday. send the bill to the office.
3 stop shouting.
4 lock all the doors.
5 put the meat in the oven.
3 Use Would you? to ask somebody to:
▶ get you a drink. Would you get me a drink?
1 switch the lights on.
2 open a window.
3 buy some bread
4 phone for a taxi.
5 wake you up at 8.00.
NOTE: I'll have is often used when people order in cafés, restaurants etc.

I'll have a black coffee, please.

which future? will, going to or present progressive?

There are some differences between these three ways of talking about the future. The differences are not always important; often we can use two or three different forms to talk about the same thing.

PLANS

Going to and the present progressive are often both possible when we talk about plans. We use the present progressive mostly for fixed plans with a definite time and/or place.

I'm going to see Ann some time soon. I think John's going to study biology.

I'm meeting Pat at the theatre at 8.00.

Sarah's starting university on September 17th.

In three of these sentences, the present progressive is possible. Which three? Rewrite them with the present progressive.

Jack is going to arrive at 4.00. I'm going to learn Spanish one of these days. I'm going to fly to Glasgow tomorrow. Al's going to tell me about his problems. We're going to spend next week in Ireland. Are you going to answer those letters?

PREDICTIONS

Going to: we can see the future in the present: we see things coming or starting. Will: we think or believe things about the future.

Look out! You're going to break that glass! (I can see it now.)

Don't give him a watch - he'll break it. (I think so, because I know him.)

2 Circle the best form.

- ▶ Mary is going to / will have a baby.
- 1 Perhaps we are going to / will meet again one day. 4 I think you are going to / will love Scotland.
- 2 Be careful, or you are going to / will fall.
- 3 Look Andy is going to / will fall off his bike!
- 5 Look at those clouds: it's going to / will rain.

DECISIONS

Will: we are making decisions. Going to: decisions exist now: they are already made.

'We've got a letter from Jan.' 'OK, I'll answer it.'

There are a lot of letters to answer.' 'I know. I'm going to do them all on Tuesday.'

3 Put in I'll or I'm going to.

- ▶ I've decided. ..!'m going to stop smoking.
- 1 'I don't want to cook tonight.' 'All right, then. cook.'
- 2 'I haven't got any money.' 'No? OK. pay.'
- 3 'Do you want to go out tonight?' 'No, wash my hair.'
- 4 'Those trousers are dirty.' 'Really? Oh, yes, they are. wash them.'
- 5 'Is Roberta eating with us?' 'Wait a minute. ask her.'

simple present My credit card expires at midnight.

We sometimes use the simple present to talk about the future. This happens mostly when we talk about timetables, routines and schedules.

Next term starts on 6th April. My train leaves at 3.17.

What time does the bus arrive in York? Do you have classes next Saturday?

Choose the best tense.

- The plane arrives / will arrive at 10.00.
- I write / will write soon.
- 1 When does / will school start?
- 2 We go / are going to Spain some time soon.
- 3 I stop / will stop smoking after Christmas.
- 4 The exams are / will be in June.
- 5 I have / will have a lecture at 9.00 tomorrow.
- 6 The train won't / doesn't stop at Oxford.
- 7 I come / will come round after 7.00.
- 8 I play / am playing football tomorrow.
- 9 What time does / will the concert end?
- 10 I post / will post your letters.

'... And please hurry. My credit card expires at midnight.'

The simple present can also be used to give and ask for instructions.

When you get to the office you go up to the first floor, you knock on the first door on the right and you ask for Mrs Alstone. OK?

What do we do now? Where do I pay?

Write sentences asking for instructions.

You don't know: when to pay. When do 1 pay? 1 how to start the car. 2 where to put your coat. 3 who to write to. 4 where to go for the interview. 5 when to apply. 6 how to make spaghetti bolognese. 7 when to start. 8 who to ask. 9 how much to give the driver. 10 where to sign.

In other cases we don't use the simple present in simple sentences to talk about the future.

Lucy's coming for a drink this evening. (NOT Lucy comes ...) I'll phone you – I promise. (NOT I phone you . . .)

There's the doorbell. I'll go. (NOT ... I go.)

future in the past I was going to ring you yesterday.

When we are talking about the past, we often want to say that something was still in the future at that time. To express this idea, we can use the past progressive (was ... ing), was going to ..., would ... or was to.

SECTION 4 past tenses

GRAMMAR SUMMARY

SIMPLE PAST: I worked, she worked, he didn't work etc PAST PROGRESSIVE (OR 'PAST CONTINUOUS'): I was working, she was working, he wasn't working etc

English has two 'past' tenses.

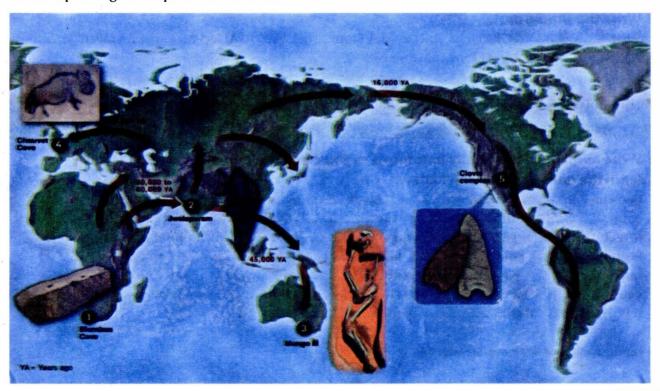

- We use the simple past for complete finished actions. We often use it in stories. I sent ten emails yesterday. A man walked into the library and asked ...
- We use the past progressive to talk about actions which were unfinished at a past time. 'What were you doing at 10.00 last night?' 'I was writing letters.'

Past tenses can make requests, questions and suggestions less direct, and so more polite. I wondered if you were free this evening. How much did you want to spend, sir? I was wondering if I could use your phone.

Where did we come from?

ost scientists now believe that our ancestors - the earliest Homo Sapiens originated in Africa around 200,000 years ago. Perhaps between 80,000 and 60,000 years ago - dates are uncertain - these people gradually started migrating into the rest of the world. Some groups crossed the Red Sea (sea levels were much lower then because water was locked up in large ice caps at the North and South Poles). As these populations grew, they settled further and further along the sea coasts into South Asia and South-East Asia, reaching Australia perhaps 45,000 years ago. Other groups colonised Central Asia, Europe and East Asia, with some populations finding their way across the Bering Strait, perhaps around 15,000 years ago, into North and South America. •

more about past tenses

We can use when in different ways with past tenses.

When Amy came home, John was cooking supper. (Amy came home during the cooking.) When Amy came home, John cooked supper. (First Amy came home; then John cooked supper.)

Put in the correct tense (simple past or past progressive).

- When I went out, it ...was raining. (rain)
- ▶ When Mary got home, she ...made tea. (make)
- 1 When I saw Lucas, he(shop)
- 2 When Ben saw me, he (stop)
- 3 When we asked them, they 'No'. (say)
- 4 When I walked in, they (talk)
- 5 When I dropped the glass, it (break)
- 6 When I phoned William, he (work)
- 7 When the music stopped, everybody (sit down)
- 8 When I arrived at the station, I a taxi. (take)

Progressive forms are used mostly for temporary actions and situations. For longer, more permanent situations we prefer the simple past. Compare:

When I walked in I found that water was running down the walls.

Explorers believed that the river ran into the Atlantic.

We do not normally use the past progressive to talk about past habits, or to say how often something happened.

I played a lot of tennis when I was younger. (NOT I was playing ...)

She rang the bell three times. (NOT She was ringing ...)

Circle the correct form.

- ▶ When I was at university I went / was going to a lot of parties.
- ▶ The Marlborough family lived was living in the same house for 400 years.
- 1 I looked out of the window. A strange man stood / was standing in the garden.
- 2 We took the road that went / was going along the river.
- 3 My sister took / was taking the driving test twelve times before she passed.
- 4 When I got there everybody danced / was dancing in the garden.
- 5 At my school we played / were playing rugby in winter and cricket in summer.
- 6 We started to hurry because it got / was getting late.
- 7 Where I grew up, most people worked / were working for the local farmer.
- 8 She got / was getting married four times twice to the same man.
- 9 People used to believe that the sun went / was going round the earth.
- 10 When I saw Annie she went / was going round the corner to the church.

Remember that some verbs are not used in progressive forms (see page 20).

I tried the cake to see how it tasted. (NOT ... how it was tasting.)

SECTION 5 perfect tenses

GRAMMAR SUMMARY

(SIMPLE) PRESENT PERFECT: I have worked, she has worked, he hasn't worked etc PRESENT PERFECT PROGRESSIVE: I have been working, he has been working etc

PAST PERFECT: I had worked, she had worked etc

PAST PERFECT PROGRESSIVE: I had been working, he had been working etc

- We use the present perfect to talk about past actions with some importance now. I've written to John, so he knows what's happening.
- We use the present perfect progressive mostly to say how long things have been going on up to now.

I have been baking since breakfast time.

 When we are already talking about the past, we use the past perfect or past perfect progressive to talk about an earlier time.

Yesterday I found some old postcards that Kate had sent to me from Italy. When Ann arrived I had been waiting for 25 minutes.

NOTE: The rules in this section apply to British English. There are some small differences in American English.

why are we getting so much faster?

he Greek athlete Spiridon Louis won the Olympic marathon in 1896 in 2 hours 58 minutes 50 seconds. A little over a century later, the great Ethiopian runner Haile Gebrselassie ran the same distance in less than 2 hours 4 minutes: 30% faster than Spiridon. Women runners have also got faster. In 1926 the woman's marathon record stood at around 2 hours 55 minutes; in 1979 the Norwegian Grete Waitz broke two and a half hours. And less than a quarter of a century later, the Englishwoman Paula Radcliffe ran a marathon in 2 hours 15 minutes 25 seconds: faster than any man had run up to 1954! There has been similar progress over the last century at all other distances, from the half marathon down to the sprints. Usain Bolt's 100 metre record of 9.58 seconds, set in 2009, was an improvement of over 9% on the 1912 record. In contrast, horse race results have scarcely changed at all. In spite of all their trainers' efforts, horses run little faster now than they did a century ago. What is happening? Why are we the only animals that are speeding up? •

revise the basics: present perfect forms and use

↑ have worked/seen etc ↑ have worked/seen? etc ↑ have not worked/seen etc
To make the present perfect, put have/has with the past participle (worked, seen etc).
Regular past participles end in -ed, like simple past forms (for spelling rules, see page 40).
work → worked hope → hoped stop → stopped try → tried
With irregular verbs, the past participle is often different from the simple past form (see page 317).
see → seen speak → spoken go → gone buy → bought Write as many of the irregular past participles as you can. Check them on page 317, and learn the ones that you don't know.
become begin break bring bring buy come drink eat fall forget give hear hold keep know learn leave let make pay put read say shut sit stand take tell think write
The present perfect connects the past and the present.
We use it especially for finished actions that are important now.
They have results now, or they are news. past present
I can't walk – I've hurt my leg. Have you heard? He's arrived!
Look - he hasn't drunk his tea. You've passed your exam!
Compare: Brutus killed Caesar. (NOT has killed – no present importance.)
We can often change a present perfect sentence into a present sentence with more or less the same meaning.
I've hurt my leg. = I have a bad leg. Sue's come back. = Sue is home.
He's lost his keys. = He can't find them. He's gone. = He isn't here.
2 Change these present perfect sentences into present sentences with similar meanings.
I've cleaned the windows. The windows are clean.
1 The Foreign Minister has died.
2 Lucy's had a baby
3 You've torn your coat.
4 I've broken my leg
5 He's lost his address book.
6 Have you made tea?
7 I've done the washing up
8 She's gone to work for the BBC.
9 We haven't found out where he is.
10 The noise has stopped.
11 I've forgotten your name.
12 She's learnt French.

revise the basics: present perfect or simple past?

PRESENT PERFECT: WE THINK ABOUT THE PAST AND THE PRESENT TOGETHER When we think about the past and present together, we normally use the present perfect.

I've phoned Ann, so she knows what's going on.

I've made coffee. Would you like a cup?

Come and look - I've painted the kitchen.

SIMPLE PAST: WE THINK ONLY ABOUT THE PAST, NOT THE PRESENT

When we think only about the past, we most often use the simple past.

My grandfather worked for a phone company.

(He's dead now; I'm not thinking about the present.)

I made a cake when Liz and Sandra came.

(I'm not talking about the present.)

I painted the living room last week.

(I'm thinking only about last week.)

Read the sentences and the questions, and circle the correct answers.

- Claudia has bought a new car. Has she got the car now? YES/ PERHAPS
- Susie went to stay with her grandmother. Is she there now? YES /(PROBABLY NOT) revise the basics: tenses with time words

We don't normally use the present perfect with words for a finished time.

I've met a really nice man. (BUT NOT I've met a really nice man yesterday:)

A plane has disappeared over the Atlantic. (BUT NOT A plane has disappeared at 3:15 this afternoon:)

Circle the words for a finished time.

two days ago then always this year last month never now today yesterday when? in 2007 before I was born just after I got up lately when I was nine in my life

Correct () or not ()?

Andy has changed his job. Sarah has gone to France last week.

- 1 John has left home in 2006.
- 2 I think everybody has gone now.
- 3 Lindsay has phoned at 10 o'clock.
- 4 I've forgotten Phil's birthday last Monday.
- 5 I've seen a good film the other day.
- 6 Look what Peter has given me yesterday!
- 7 Claire has written to me three weeks ago.
- 8 Sorry I've forgotten your name.
- 9 The house is empty! What has happened?
- 10 When have you heard from Peter?

We can use the present perfect to ask if things have happened up to now, or to say that they haven't happened up to now.

This often happens with words for an unfinished time:

for example today, ever, never, yet.

Has the boss phoned today? Have you ever broken your leg? We haven't been to Scotland this year.

Mary hasn't written to me yet.

Recently, lately and before can be used like this.

Have you heard from Phil recently?

'Who's that?' 'I've never seen him before.'

	Have you	u ever be	en to Pa	ris?
PAST	?EVER	EVER	EVER	EVER?	NOW

- 8 He has caught / caught the plane at eight this morning.
- 9 I 've read | read a lot of her books when I was at school.
- 10 Have you seen / Did you see any good films recently?

revise the basics: already, yet and just

We often use the present perfect with already (= 'earlier than somebody expected'). Note the word order: already comes after have .
'Coffee?' 'No, thanks. I've already had some.'
'Can I speak to Colette?' 'I'm afraid she's already gone home.'
1
Complete the sentences with already and verbs from the box (present perfect).
buy find leave ✓ read sell tell
What time's the bus?' 'It's already left
1 'Shall I tell Sally?' 'I her.'
2 'Do you want the newspaper?' ' it.'
3 'I'll buy milk, shall I?' 'I some.'
4 Amelia lost her job last week, but she a new one.
5 'How much do you want for your car?' ' it.'
We also often use the present perfect with yet (= 'up to now') in questions and negatives. Note the word order: yet usually comes at the end of a sentence.
'Have you paid the electrician yet?' 'No, he hasn't sent his bill yet.'
Make questions and negatives with yet .
1 you / have breakfast ?
2 Cheryl / find a flat =
3 you / finish the painting ?
4 John / phone ?
5 Carole / come back from holiday 🗖
6 the newspaper / come =
And we often use the present perfect with just (= 'a short time ago'). Just comes after have.
I've just heard from the tax office. The snow has just stopped.
Write five things that have just happened (in your family, in the world,) My sister has just got married. A famous pop star has just died.
You probably want to do a lot of things in life. Write five things that you haven't done yet. I haven't seen a volcano yet.
NOTE: In American English, the simple past is often used with already, yet and just.
'Mhara's Sarana?' 'Sha went home already' 'Did you eat yet?' Liust had a great idea finished time or time up to now? this morning; at school

Some expressions can refer either to an unfinished or to a finished time. The tense depends on the meaning. Compare:

I haven't seen Carl this morning. (said in the morning) I didn't see Carl this morning, (said in the afternoon) I've made lots of friends at university. (said by a student) I made lots of friends at university. (said by an ex-student)

Read the sentences and circle the correct answers.

- ▶ 'A lot of people came to see me in hospital.' Was the speaker in hospital when he/she said this? A Yes.
- A Yes. 1 'I didn't enjoy school.' Was the speaker at school when he/she said this? B No.

- 9 'Peter has done some very stupid things in his first job.' Is he still in his first job? B No.
- 10 'During her time as President she has done a great deal of good for her country.' Is she still President? A Yes. B No.

We can think of a finished or unfinished time without putting the time in words. Compare:

Did you see 'Hamlet'? (It was on TV last night.) Have you seen 'Hamlet'? (= Have you ever seen 'Hamlet'?)

Put in the simple past or present perfect.

1	You a beautiful baby. (be)
2	I her latest book. (not read) news We've found oil in the garden!

We often use the present perfect to give news: to tell people about new things that have happened.

The Prime Minister has arrived in Washington for talks with the President. Jessica has bought a new car. A plane has crashed at Heathrow Airport. Some new people have moved into the house next door.

When John Wells arrived home from work, his family gave him a lot of news. Complete the sentences.

Here are some sentences from radio news broadcasts. Put in the correct verbs.

REMEMBER: we don't normally use the present perfect with words for a finished time.

We've found oil in the garden. BUT NOT We've found oil in the garden yesterday. A plane has crashed at Heathrow Airport, BUT NOT A plane has crashed at 3.15 this afternoon

NOTE: In American English it is quite common to give news with the simple past.

'Somebody stole my car!'

news and details A plane has crashed. It came down . . .

revise the basics: present perfect progressive; since, for

+	I have been working etc	?	have you been working? etc	8	he has not been working etc

We make the present perfect progressive with have/has been + ...ing.

We have been living here since April. John's been working in the bank for three months.

We use the present perfect progressive (with most verbs) to say how long things have been continuing up to now. We do not use a present tense with this meaning.

I've been learning English for four years. (NOT I'm learning English for four years.) Have you been waiting long? It's been snowing since Tuesday.

I've been walking all day.

PAST 11111 NOW 11

Complete the sentences with verbs from the box. Use the present perfect progressive.

9			you			long, si	r?
10	They	call him	n the w	aiter, but we .			fc	or our cof

We can say how long with since or for.

We use since when we give the beginning of the time (for example since Tuesday).

We use for when we give the length of the time (for example for three days).

It's been snowing since Tuesday. It's been snowing for three days. (NOT ... since three days.)

I've been working here since last week. I've only been working here for a short time.

He's been waiting for a visa since April. He's been waiting for six months.

Put in since or for.

1 two weeks		5 yesterday	9	August

Make present perfect progressive sentences. Use for or since. Oliver started learning the piano in January. Now it's May. (for) Oliver has been learning the piano for four months. ▶ It started snowing on Wednesday. It's still snowing. (since) It's been snowing since Wednesday. 1 My father started repairing his car on Sunday. Now it's Friday. (for) 2 We started travelling at six o'clock. Now it's eleven o'clock. (for) 3 We started waiting for the train at 7.30. (since)

4 Mr Andrews started making violins when he was 20. Now he's 50. (for)

5 Prices started going up fast last year. (since)

6 I started writing my great novel in January. (since)

7 The water started rising at midnight. Now it's 8.00 a.m. (for)

8 The people next door started playing loud music at 9.00 p.m. Now it's 2.00 a.m. (for) 9 I started trying to explain things to her an hour ago. (for)

10 The dog started barking at six o'clock. (since)

We can use the present perfect progressive just to say how we have been filling our time (up to now),

'You look tired.' 'Yes, I've been working in the garden.' I'm sorry dinner isn't ready - I've been helping Diana with her homework. We've been playing a lot of tennis in the last few weeks.

Put together the beginnings and ends of the conversations.

- 0 'Aren't you hungry?'
- 1 'Is it true that Philip's been arrested?'

especially when we talk about present results.

- 2 'Janet seems very cheerful.'
- 3 'She's very dirty.'
- 4 'Why are my books all over the floor?'
- 5 'Why's your hair wet?'
- 6 'You all look very miserable.'
- 7 'You look tired.'
- 8 'You're very late.'
- 9 'Your hair's all white.'

- A 'Helen's been looking at them.'
- B 'I've been moving furniture all afternoon.'
- C 'I've been swimming.'
- D 'I've been talking to Henry, and he just goes on and on.'
- E 'No, I've been eating all day.'
- F 'She's been cleaning the cellar.'
- G 'She's been skiing with Roger for the last week.'
- H 'Yes, he's been stealing things from shops.'
- 'Yes. I've been painting the ceiling.'
- J 'Yes, we've been telling each other our life stories.'

present perfect or present perfect progressive?

We use the present perfect mostly for finished actions.

We use the present perfect progressive mostly for unfinished actions continuing up to now (often when we say how long).

PRESENT PERFECT: I have written etc

finished actions

Mike has learnt how to cook spaghetti. I've read your book. (= I've finished it.) I've written to John, so he knows everything.

NOW

PRESENT PERFECT PROGRESSIVE: I have been writing etc

unfinished actions -> now

Jane has been learning Greek since August. I've been reading your book: I'm enjoying it. The children have been writing letters all day.

We use the present perfect to say how much or how often. Compare:

We've travelled to nine countries this year. I've played tennis three times this week.

We've been travelling all this year. I've been playing a lot of tennis recently.

PAST

Circle the correct form.

- ▶ How long have you learnt / (been learning) the piano?
- Look! I have (bought) | been buying a coat.
- 1 It has rained / been raining since Tuesday.
- 2 John has broken / been breaking his leg.
- 3 He hasn't told / been telling me his address.
- 4 How long have we driven / been driving now?

- 7 How long have you sat / been sitting here?
- 8 How many letters have you written? / been writing?
- 9 She has learnt / been learning German for six years.
- 10 She has learnt / been learning most of the irregular verbs.

The present perfect progressive can also be used for longer, more permanent situations. However, we often prefer a simple present perfect, especially when we are talking about unchanging states rather than actions. Compare:

He's been standing there for hours.

The castle has stood on this hill for 900 years.

Circle the best answer. (Both are correct, but one is more probable.)

- 1 We've lived / been living in London since January.

Don't confuse: How long have you been here (for)? (= 'Since when ...?') and How long are you here for? (= 'Until when ...?') simple past and present perfect: summary

SIMPLE PAST: I worked/wrote/drove etc

finished actions

- finished actions, no connection with present My grandfather worked for a newspaper. I hated school.
- with words for a finished time, like yesterday, in 2002, ago, then, when I saw Ann yesterday. (NOT I have seen Ann yesterday.) When did you stop smoking? (NOT When have you stopped smoking?)
- stories

A man walked into a café and sat down at a table. The waiter asked ...

 details (time, place etc) of news The cat has eaten your supper. She took it off the table. Tim has had an accident. He fell off his bicycle when he was going to work.

(SIMPLE) PRESENT PERFECT: I have worked/written/driven etc

A finished actions

- thinking about past and present together I've written to John, so he knows what's happening now. Jane has found my glasses, so I can see again.
- news

A plane has crashed at Heathrow airport. The Prime Minister has left for Paris.

- up to now: how much/many; how often I've drunk six cups of coffee today. My father has often tried to stop smoking.
- up to now: things that haven't happened; questions; ever and never Mark hasn't phoned. Has Peter said anything to you? Have you ever seen a ghost? I've never seen one.
- already, yet and just 'Where's Oscar?' 'He's already gone home.'

'Coffee?' 'I've just had some.' Has the postman come yet?

 NOT with words for a finished time I saw Penny yesterday. She's getting married. (NOT I have seen Penny yesterday.)

- B unfinished actions continuing up to now (especially with be, have, know and other non-progressive verbs)
- to say how long (often with since and for) How long have you been in this country? We've had our car for seven years. I've known Jake since 1996. (NOT I know Jake since 1996.)

PRESENT PERFECT PROGRESSIVE: I have been working/writing/driving etc unfinished actions continuing up to now (most verbs)

- to say how long (often with since and for)
 - I've been learning English since last summer. Have you been waiting long?

We've been driving for three hours - it's time for a rest.

DON'T use a present tense to say how long.

I've been living here since January. (NOT I'm living here since January.)

- to say how we have been filling our time up to now 'You look tired.' 'Yes, I've been working in the garden.' Sorry I haven't written. I've been travelling.
- NOT USUALLY to talk about long, unchanging situations The castle has stood on this hill for 900 years.

revise the basics: past perfect he had not been working etc I had been working etc had you been working? etc. To make the past perfect, put had with the past participle (worked, seen, lost etc). She didn't write to Steve because she'd lost his address. It was a song that I hadn't heard before. We use the past perfect when we are already talking about the past, and want to talk about an earlier past time. I bought a ticket and went up to the platform. But the train had already left. EARLIER PAST PAST NOW We couldn't understand why Simon hadn't paid for the car. I went into the office. It was empty. Natalie had gone home. I was glad that I had taken an early flight. Susie wondered if anyone had told Oliver.

- Circle the correct answers.
 - ▶ I didn't have / hadn't had much money after I paid / (had paid) for the plane ticket.
 - 1 Carl never saw / had never seen a castle before he went / had gone to Europe.
 - 2 No one understood / had understood how the dog got / had got out.
 - 3 I arrived / had arrived at the cinema at 5.30, but the film already started / had already started.
 - 4 Sarah didn't play / hadn't played golf on Saturday because she hurt / had hurt her leg.
 - 5 After I looked / had looked in all the drawers for my keys, I found / had found them in my pocket.
 - 6 I didn't recognise / hadn't recognised Lucy, because she grew / had grown her hair very long.
 - 7 The man told / had told me that he was / had been in Russia a few years before.
 - 8 Everything was / had been white and beautiful, because it snowed / had snowed in the night.
 - 9 Because I didn't make / hadn't made an appointment, the manager refused / had refused to see me.
 - 10 When I did / had done the washing up I sat down / had sat down and read / had read the paper.
- Put in the simple past or the past perfect.

more about the past perfect after I had finished

We often use the past perfect with when and after to show that something was completely finished before something else happened.

When he had painted the kitchen and bathroom, he decided to have a rest. After I had finished the report, I realised that it was too late to email it.

U	Make sentences using the past perfect.

SECTION 6 modal verbs

GRAMMAR SUMMARY

MODAL VERBS: can, could shall, should may, might will, would ought to must

The modal verbs are a special group of auxiliary verbs. We use them before other verbs to express certain meanings – for example permission, ability, possibility, certainty.

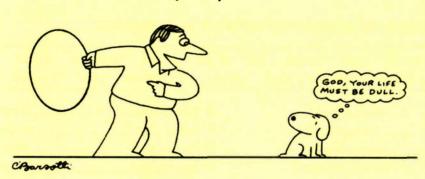

Modals have different grammar from other verbs. For example, they have no -s on the third person singular: we say he can, NOT he cans.

Have to, be able to, used to, had better, be supposed to and needn't are similar to modals in some ways, and they are included in this section.

For will, see pages 28-30.

Modal verbs can be used in a special structure with have + past participle (e.g should have phoned). This is used mainly to talk about possibilities in the past; the exact meaning depends on the particular modal.

'Should we walk upright? Should we continue to live in trees? Should we try to make things? Decisions, decisions!'

revise the basics: the grammar of modals

The 'modal auxiliary verbs' are can, could, may, might, shall, should, will, would, must and ought. They are used before other verbs, and in tags and short answers.

'You can speak Japanese, can't you?' 'Yes, I can.'

'You shouldn't be here, should you?' 'No, I shouldn't.'

1 DO IT YOURSELF Compare the modal verbs and the ordinary verbs in the examples, and answer the questions.

MODAL VERBS	ORDINARY VERBS
I may see him.	I hope to see him.
He must be happy.	He seems to be happy.
Shall we stop?	Do you want to stop?
I can't sing.	She doesn't like to sing.
He ought to tell her.	He plans to tell her.

- 1 Which sort of infinitive is used after modal verbs?
- 2 Which is the exception?
- 3 What is special about the third person present (he/she/it ...) of modals?
- 4 What is special about the question and negative forms of modals?

Use some of the infinitives from the box to complete the sentences.

				•	•	•	•	to leave	to
1			th		•				 ew car.

2 She seemsbetter today.7 Must youso much noise?3 I wantsome shopping.8 Could youthe salt?4 We mayto France soon.9 We oughtAngela.

5 When will you school? 10 I'd like to another house.

Make these sentences into questions, and change the pronouns as shown. Example:

- I can swim. (you) Can you swim?

 1 She can stay here. (I)

 2 I must go. (you)
- 3 You may sit down. (we)
- 4 They can drive. (she)

 5 He could do it. (she)
- 8 You must change here. (1)

Modal auxiliary verbs have no infinitives or participles. Instead, we use other expressions like be able to, have to, be allowed to.

He'd like to be able to travel abroad more. (NOT He'd like to can ...)

I've never been able to understand maths. (NOT I've never could ...)

I'm sorry to have to tell you this ... (NOT I'm sorry to must ...)

We've had to get new shoes for both the kids. (NOT We've must ...)

She has always been allowed to go out alone. (NOT She has always could ...)

Complete the sentences using expressions from the box (once or more than once).

be able to to be able to been able to been allowed to have to to have to had to

- 1 One day, everybody will travel where they want.
- 2 I'm afraid you will work next weekend.
- 3 I would hate live in a big city.
- 4 I would have enjoyed the holiday more if I had speak Spanish.
- 5 I'd like ski better.
- 6 She's never spell properly.
- 7 I hate get up early.
- 8 We've move house twice this year.
- 9 I've never drive my father's car.
- 10 Will you come fishing next Saturday?

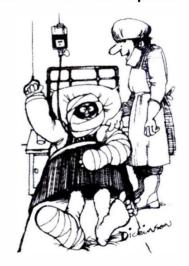

Complete some of these sentences.

- 1 I've never been able to
- 2 I'd like to be able to
- 3 One day, people will be able to 4 I wouldn't like to have to
- 5 I've always had to
- 6 I've never had to
- 8 I've never been allowed to 6 Choose the best word(s).

- 1 you swim? (may, can, shall)
- 2 I really go now. (shall, would, must)
- 3 We see Ann tomorrow. (might, ought, would)
- 4 You to see the doctor. (should, could, ought)
- 5 I understand him. (couldn't, mustn't, be able)
- 6 You be here at exactly 10.00. Don't be late.
- (must, may, might)
- 7 I carry your bag? (might, will, can)
- 8 It rain tomorrow. (may, would, shall)
- 9 It be 10 o'clock already! (might not, can't, oughtn't to)
- 10 You be very tired after your journey. (would, must, can)

What do you think are the missing words in the cartoon caption?

'But the good news is that you'll never smoke, drink or drive a car again.'

revise the basics: must, should and ought to

Must (not) is used for orders and for strong suggestions, advice and opinions. Should (not) is used for less strong suggestions, advice and opinions.
You must stop smoking or you'll die. I really think you should stop smoking. You must not park here. You shouldn't park here; somebody will steal your car. People must realise that the world is in trouble. People should do more to help others.
Ought is similar to should, but is followed by to.
People ought to do more to help others.
1 You know, I think you
2 People shouldn't
We often use should in questions when we are wondering what to do. Should I change my job or stay where I am?
1
Write questions for people who don't know: how much cheese to buy. How much cheese should I buy? whether to move to London. how long to wait. what to do at the weekend. where to park.
5 when to pay the tax bill
Write some similar questions for yourself. Should 1 go on studying English?

have to and must

Have (got) to is similar to must.

I have to finish this report before tomorrow. OR I must finish this report before tomorrow.

Do you have to make all that noise? OR Must you make all that noise?

We've got to check in before six o'clock. OR We must check in before six o'clock.

There is sometimes a small (and not very important) difference between must and have (got) to.

Must can be used especially to talk about the feelings and wishes of the speaker/hearer.

Have (got) to can be used especially to talk about obligations that come from somewhere else. Compare:

I must stop smoking. (I want to.)

I've got to stop smoking - doctor's orders.

Must you wear those dirty jeans? (Is that what you want?)

Do you have to wear a tie at work? (Is there a rule?)

You have to drive on the left in England. (MORE NATURAL THAN You must drive on the left ...)

may and might It may rain. It might even snow.

We use may and might (but not usually can) to say that things are possible - perhaps they are true, or perhaps they will happen.

'Who's that?' 'I'm not sure. It may be Celia.' (NOT It can be Celia.)

I might go and see Dad at the weekend.

The company might lose money this year.

To say that perhaps things are not true, or will not happen, we use may/might not.

I may/might not get that new job after all.

٩.	ì

Rewrite the sentences with may (not).

- Perhaps you're right. You may be right.
- Perhaps we won't see Bill. We may not see Bill.

- 6 Perhaps I won't move house.
- 7 Perhaps she's unhappy.
- 8 Perhaps he doesn't like you.
- 9 Perhaps she's not ready.
- 10 Perhaps I won't pay.

Might sometimes suggests a smaller possibility. Compare:

She may be at home. (perhaps a 50% chance) Tina might be there too. (perhaps a smaller chance) According to the radio, it may rain today. It might even snow.

Note the difference between may/might not and can't.

The game may/might not finish before ten. (Perhaps it won't.)

The game can't finish before ten – it only started at 9.30. (It's not possible.)

Put in may/might not or can't.

- 1 I'll go to the supermarket, but it be open.

- 7 He's got a strong French accent. He be English.
- 8 I pass the exam, but I'm hoping for the best.
- 9 I'm going to see my old primary school teacher tomorrow, but she remember me.
- 10 You want more to eat you've just had an enormous meal.

We sometimes use could in the same way as might.

The company could lose money this year. It could rain today.

NOTE: There is no contraction mayn't.

revise the basics: permission, requests etc

We can ask for permission with can, could (more formal or polite) or may (very formal, less common).
Can I ask you a question? Could I look at your newspaper? May I sit here?
Can and may can also be used to offer to do things for people.
Can I get you a drink? May I help you, sir?

revise the basics: used to

(MORE FORMAL: Used you to play? She used not to play) (Used to is not really a modal: we usually make questions and negatives with did.)
I used to play tennis. I don't play now.
PAST QQQQQQQQQQQNOW
We use used to + infinitive for finished habits and situations: things that were true, but are not now.
She used to live in Liverpool. Did you use to play football? I didn't use to like her. I used not to like her. (More formal.)
Used to is only past. For present habits, we use the simple present tense.
My sister plays tennis occasionally. (NOT My sister uses to play)
Make sentences about past and present habits and situations.

SECTION 7 passives

GRAMMAR SUMMARY

When A does something to B, there are often two ways to talk about it: 'active' and 'passive'.

- We use active verbs if we want A to be the subject. My sister makes these toys. Two boys stole my car.
- We use passive verbs if we want B to be the subject. These toys are made by my sister. My car was stolen by two boys.

We make passive verbs with be (am, are, is etc) + past participle (made, stolen etc). Passive verbs have the same tenses (simple present, present progressive, present perfect etc) as active verbs.

For a list of active and passive tenses, see page 318.

reasons for using passives

We choose passive or active so that we can start the sentence with the thing or person that we are talking about.

PASSIVE: St Paul's Cathedral was built between 1675 and 1710. It ... (talking about the Cathedral) PASSIVE: St Paul's Cathedral was built by Christopher Wren. It ... (talking about the Cathedral) Christopher Wren built St Paul's Cathedral. Then he ... (talking about Christopher Wren)

Christopher Wren built St Paul's Cathedral.

Make active and passive sentences.

	Write about Shakespeare. Shakespeare wrote 'Hamlet' in 1601. Write about 'Hamlet'. 'Hamlet' was written by Shakespeare in 1601.
1
1	this sweater / Polly's mother / make Write about Polly's mother.
	Write about this sweater.
2	Carla / the electricity bill / last week / pay Write about Carla.
	Write about the electricity bill.
3	the first television / L. Baird / 1924 / build

Write about the first television. Write about J. L. Baird.

We choose passive or active to continue talking about the same thing or person.

Spanish is a useful language for travelling. It is spoken in most of Central and South America. (BETTER THAN People speak it in most ...)

We've got two cats. They catch a lot of mice. (BETTER THAN A lot of mice are caught by them.)

2 Circle the best way to continue.

- 1 This ice cream has a very unusual taste.
 - A I think someone makes it with coconut milk. B I think it's made with coconut milk.
- 2 Rice is important in Cajun cooking.
 - A People serve it with every meal. B It's served with every meal.

SECTION 8 questions and negatives

GRAMMAR SUMMARY

To make questions, we normally put an auxiliary verb (be, have, can etc) before the subject.

The bus has left. -> Has the bus left? She's crying. → Why is she crying?

To make negatives, we put not or n't after an auxiliary verb.

It is raining. \rightarrow It is not raining. I could see. -> I couldn't see.

If there is no other auxiliary verb, we use do.

I work in Sheffield. → Where do you work? He said 'No'. → What did he say?

She likes ice cream. → She doesn't like ice cream.

We do not use do when a question word is the subject.

What happened? (NOT What did happen?)

Prepositions often come at the end of questions.

What are you thinking about? Where's she from?

Negative questions can have two possible structures.

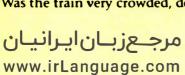

Is she not ready? (very formal) Isn't she ready? (informal)

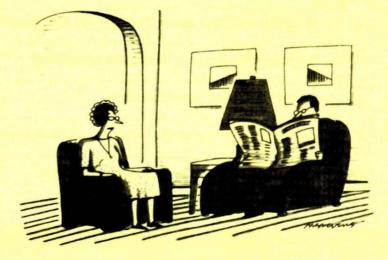

No is used before nouns and -ing forms to mean 'not any'.

NO SMOKING There's no bread left.

'Was the train very crowded, dear?'

'I married you for your money, Leonard. Where is it?'

Note that do may come twice in questions: as an auxiliary verb and as a main verb.

What does your father do? What did you do at university?

Common question expressions before nouns:

what colour, what size, what make of, what sort/kind/type of.

What colour eyes has she got? (ALSO POSSIBLE: What colour are her eyes?)

What size shoes do you wear?

What make of car did you buy? What sort of music do you like?

Note that we usually ask What time ...?, NOT At what time ...?

What time does the train get in?

3 Complete the questions with a suitable expression.

	What colour	curtains shall we have in the kitchen?
2		hair has the baby got?
3		books do you read?
4		mountain bike do you recommend?
5		food do you like?
6		shirt do you need?
7		TV is the best?
8		fridge shall we get?
9		books does she write?
10		is the concert?

Note the difference between how? and what ... like?

We use how? mostly to ask about things that change – e.g. moods, health, work.

We use what ... like? mostly to ask about things that don't change – e.g. people's character and appearance. Compare:

'How's Joe?' 'He's very well.' 'What's Joe like?' 'Tall, good-looking, a bit shy.'

'How does she seem today?' 'Much happier.'

'What does your sister look like?' 'Short, dark and cheerful-looking.'

4 Make questions with How or What ... like.

	(your flat?) what's your flat like?	'Small but very comfortable.'
1	(the new teacher)	'Not much good.'
2	(your mother?)	'Fine, thanks.'
3	(work going?)
4	(business?)	'Terrible.'
5	(Anne's boyfriend?)	'Not very nice.'
6	(school?)	'Much better now.'
7	(Manchester?)	'An interesting place.'
8	(things at home?)	'OK, I suppose.'
9	(your village)	'Very quiet.'
10	(the neighbours)

question-word subjects Who won? What happened?

wne	en who and what are subjects, we make questions without do/does/dia. Compare:
	o ^{suBJ} won?' 'United ^{suBJ} won.' (NOT 'Who did win?')
Who	o ^{OBJ} did you tell?' 'l told Anna^{OBJ}.' at ^{SUBJ} happened?' 'Something ^{SUBJ} nice happened.' (NOT 'What did happen?') at ^{OBJ} did he say?' 'He said something ^{OBJ} nice.'

revise the basics: negatives

To make negative verb forms, we put not or n't after an auxiliary verb or be. (Note: won't = 'will not').
We have not forgotten. She can't swim. It wasn't raining. I won't tell anybody.
If there is no other auxiliary, we use do.
I don't like the soup. (NOT Hike not the soup.)
We do not use do with other auxiliaries.
You mustn't worry. (NOT You don't must worry.)
I haven't seen him. (NOT I don't have seen him.)
After do, we use the infinitive without to.
I didn't think. (NOT I didn't to think / thinking / thought.)
1 Correct these sentences by making them negative. ► Karl Marx discovered America. Karl Marx didn't discover America. 1 Shakespeare was French. 2 Austrians speak Japanese. 3 Roses are green. 4 Cats can fly. 5 George Washington lived in Russia. 6 Fridges run on petrol. 7 The sun goes round the earth. 8 Telescopes make things smaller. 9 There are seventeen players in a rugby team. 10 Bananas grow in Scotland.
In standard English, we do not use not or do with other negative words like never , hardly , nothing . (But this is common in some English dialects.)
He never works. (NOT He does never work: OR He doesn't never work:)
It hardly matters. (NOT He doesn't hardly matter.) He said nothing. (NOT He didn't say nothing.)
I've got no money. (NOT l'haven't got no money.)
2 Make the sentences negative.
I eat fish. (never) I never eat fish.
Somebody spoke. (nobody) Nobody spoke.
1 I like your new glasses. (not)
2 I understood. (nothing)
3 Something happened. (nothing)
4 Sally likes dancing. (not)
5 Somebody wants to sing. (nobody)
6 There's somewhere to sit down. (nowhere)
7 My mother drives fast. (never)
8 I go out. (hardly)
9 We'll get there. (never)
10 We'll get there. (not)

Note the difference between not and no.

We use not to make a word, expression or clause negative.

Not surprisingly, we missed the train. (NOT No surprisingly ...)

I can see you tomorrow, but not on Thursday. I have not received his answer.

We use no with a noun or -ing form to mean 'not any' or 'not a/an' (see page 171).

No teachers went on strike. (= There weren't any teachers on strike.)

I've got no Thursdays free this term. (= ... not any Thursdays ...)

I telephoned, but there was no answer. (= ... not an answer.)

We can use negative questions in polite invitations.

Won't you come in? Wouldn't you like something to drink?

But we do not use negative questions to ask people to do things for us.

Can you help me? You couldn't help me, could you? BUT NOT Can't you help me? (This sounds like a criticism.)

Notice how we use Yes and No in answers to negative questions.

'Yes' goes with or suggests an affirmative verb, and 'No' goes with or suggests a negative verb.

'Don't you like it?' Yes (I like it).' 'Aren't you ready?' 'No (I'm not ready).'

Add Yes or No to the answers.

	'Aren't you ready?' ', I am.'

4 Grammar in a text. Read the text, and then write questions for the answers.

In a small village in North Yorkshire, there's a big old farmhouse where three families live together: Alice and George and their three children, Joe and Pam and their two children, and Sue and her baby daughter. The adults divide up the work between them. George does the cooking, Joe and Sue do most of the housework, Pam looks after the shopping and does the repairs, and Alice takes care of the garden. Alice, George and Sue go out to work; Joe works at home designing computer systems, and Pam, who is a painter, looks after the baby during the day. Two of the children go to school in the village, but the three oldest ones go by bus to the secondary school in the nearest town, ten miles away.

The three families get on well, and enjoy their way of life. There are a few difficulties, of course. Their biggest worry at the moment is money – one of the cars needs replacing, and the roof needs some expensive repairs. But this isn't too serious – the bank has agreed to a loan, which they expect to be able to pay back in three years. And they all say they would much rather go on living in their old farmhouse than move to a luxury flat in a big city.

SECTION 9 infinitives and -ing forms

GRAMMAR SUMMARY

INFINITIVES: (to) see, (to) go, (to) break etc

-ING FORMS (ALSO CALLED 'GERUNDS'): seeing, going, breaking etc

Infinitives often have to before them; but not always.

I want to go home, but I can't go now.

Negative infinitives are made with not (to).

I told her not to pay.

Besides ordinary infinitives, there are also progressive, perfect and passive infinitives.

I'd like to be lying on the beach now. You ought to have told me.

He can be found in the café most afternoons.

We can use infinitives to say why we do things.

I got up early to say goodbye to Miriam.

We often use -ing forms as subjects.

Smoking is dangerous. (More natural than To smoke is dangerous.)

If we use infinitives as subjects, we prefer a structure with it. (See page 147.)

It's dangerous to smoke.

After some verbs we use infinitives; after others we use -ing forms.

l expect to meet John tomorrow. (NOT Lexpect meeting ...)

I'll finish painting in a minute. (NOT I'll finish to paint ...)

We can use infinitives after some adjectives and nouns.

We're ready to stop. I'm glad to be here. I've got work to do.

After prepositions we use -ing forms, not infinitives.

You can't live without eating. (NOT ... without to eat.)

I usually watch TV before going to bed. (NOT ... before to go to bed.)

'There are three rules for writing the novel. Unfortunately, no one knows what they are.' (W Somerset Maugham)

> 'To be or not to be, that is the question.' (Shakespeare, 'Hamlet')

'Writing is easy; all you do is sit staring at a blank sheet of paper until the drops of blood form on your forehead.'

(Gene Fowler)

'It's nice to get up in the morning, but it's nicer to stay in bed.'

(Traditional)

'Writing a book of poetry is like dropping a rose petal down the Grand Canyon and waiting for the echo.'

(Don Marquis)

'Beethoven tells you what it's like to be Beethoven and Mozart tells you what it's like to be human. Bach tells you what it's like to be the universe.'

(Douglas Adams)

'A hen is only an egg's way of making another egg.'
(Samuel Butler)

revise the basics: infinitive with and without to

We normally put to before an infinitive. Negative infinitives have not to.
I want to have a rest. (NOT I want have a rest.) I decided not to go to Scotland. (NOT to not go)
We use an infinitive without to after the auxiliary do.
I didn't know her address. (NOT didn't to know)
And we use an infinitive without to after the modal verbs can, could, may, might, must, shall, should, will and would, and after had better and needn't. (BUT NOTE ought to).
Could you help me? (NOT Could you to help me?) You should try to forget about it.
'Can you stay for supper?' 'No, thanks, I'd better go home.' You needn't worry. We ought to stop.
Note also the structure with Why (not) ?
Why worry? Why not give him socks for Christmas?

revise the basics: infinitive of purpose

We can use an infinitive to say why somebody does something.

She sat down to rest. (NOT ... for rest. OR ... for resting.)

Write sentences to say why people go to the following places. Begin You go ... (Different answers are possible.)

	interest answers are possible.)
	a library You go to a library to borrow books.
1	a bookshop
2	a bank
3	acinema
	a theatre
5	a swimming pool
6	a gym
7	a driving school
8
9	an airport
10	a travel agent
11
12	a football stadium
13	a post office
14	a restaurant
15	a supermarket

Write a sentence to say why you are learning English. (To get a better job? To study something else? To travel? To ...?)

GRAMMAR AND VOCABULARY: cooking. Make sure you know the words in the box.
Use a dictionary if necessary. Then complete the sentences.

VERBS: bake boil cut measure 🗸 fry mix weigh NOUNS: bowl frying pan jug knife oven saucepan scales You use a measuring jug to measure water, milk etc. 1 You use scales things. 2 You use a saucepan things. 3 You use a frying pan things. 4 You use a bowl things.

5 You use a knife things.

6 You use an oven things.

In order to ... and so as to ... are common before be, know and have; and before other verbs in a more formal style.

I got up early in order to be ready to leave at eight.

She studied English in order to have a better chance of getting a job.

I came to Britain so as to know more about British culture.

In order and so as are very common before not to.

I spoke quietly so as not to frighten her. (MORE NATURAL THAN I spoke quietly not to frighten her.)

revise the basics: verb + infinitive or -ing form

Some verbs are followed by the infinitives of other verbs. Example: want.
I want to play in goal. (NOT I want playing in goal:)
Some verbs are followed by the -ing forms of other verbs. Example: enjoy.
l enjoy playing in goal. (NOT+enjoy to play in-goal.)

1 DO IT YOURSELF Ten of these verbs are followed by infinitives and six are followed by -ing forms. Do you know which? Check in a good dictionary if necessary.

more about infinitives: to sit, to be sitting, ...

There are simple, progressive, perfect and passive infinitives, with and without to.

SIMPLE: I want to see the manager. It may rain.

PROGRESSIVE: It's nice to be sitting here. You must be joking.

PERFECT: I'm glad to have seen her. She could have told us.

PASSIVE: She likes to be liked. It will be posted today.

There are also perfect progressive and perfect passive infinitives.

PERFECT PROGRESSIVE: I'd like to have been sitting there when she walked in.

PERFECT PASSIVE: You could have been killed.

Negative infinitives are made with not (to).

Try not to be late. (NOT Try to don't be late.)

I'm sorry not to have phoned. You should not worry.

Put in the right kind of infinitive.

- 1 I ought right now. (work)
- 2 Your watch will by Tuesday. (repair)
- 3 I'd like home early today. (go)
- 4 I'd like her face when she opened the letter. (see) perfect infinitives: to have gone etc

Perfect infinitives	have the same ki	nd of meaning as	perfect or past tenses.
---------------------	------------------	------------------	-------------------------

I'm glad to have left school. (= '... that I have left school.') She was sorry not to have seen Bill. (= '... that she had not seen Bill.') We hope to have finished the job soon. (='... that we will have finished ...')

see	em to nave annoyea Anne yesterday. (= "It seems that I annoyed)
	Rewrite these sentences using perfect infinitives. I I'm glad I've met you.
2	2 I was sorry I had disturbed him.
3	I expect I'll have passed all my exams by June.
4	It seems that you made a mistake. You seem
5	I'm happy that I've had a chance to talk to you.
•	I was disappointed that I had missed the party.
7	7 It seems that she's got lost.
8	She was pleased that she had found the house.
	was/were, would like and meant, perfect infinitives often refer to unreal situations that are the posite of what really happened.

He was to have gone to art college but he fell ill. (He didn't go.) I meant to have telephoned but I forgot. I'd like to have been sitting there when she walked in. (I wasn't there.)

Rewrite the sentences.

- 11 'Do you want to come out with us tonight, Peter?
- 12 'Shall we book seats in advance?'
- 13 We'd like to move to a bigger house,

We cannot usually drop to.

'Come and have a drink.' 'I'd like to.' (NOT 'I'd like.')

But we can drop to in the expressions if you like/ want, when you like/want and as you like.

'Can I help?' 'If you like.' We'll stop when you want.

He 400.

'I can say we live in a fascist state if I want to. It's a free country.'

Tomorrow is another day the evening, because the previous owners had taken all day to move out. And when we finally did get in, there was so much to do: boxes to unpack, children and animals to feed, bedding to find and beds to make. And of course nobody could remember which boxes things had been packed in. When we'd finally got the children to bed, Jenny and I sat down and started making a list which just got longer and longer. The thing is, it wasn't really a 'new' home at all; it was an old house that had been neglected for years. There were five dirty rooms to clean up and decorate; windows to replace; plumbing, electrics and central heating to sort out; a whole lot of furniture to buy; and a real jungle of a garden to clear and plant. And for the kids: school and all the usual activities to organise. I looked at Jennie, she looked at me, I put the list down, I said 'Tomorrow is another day,' and we dragged ourselves off to bed.

(James Eliot)

for ... to ... It's time for the postman to come.

After an adjective or a noun, if an infinitive needs its own subject this is introduced by for. Compare:

SECTION 10 various structures with verbs

GRAMMAR SUMMARY

Several different structures are practised in this section:

imperatives

Write your address here.

• let's

Let's go and see Fred.

verbs with two objects

Can you send me the details?

• causative structures with have and get

I must have my watch repaired. We need to get the curtains cleaned.

exclamations

What a fool! How strange! Isn't she sweet!

• emphatic do

You do look nice. Do sit down. I said I was going to win, and I did win.

structures with preparatory it and what

It's strange that she hasn't phoned. It's not tea I want, it's coffee. What I need is a drink.

phrasal verbs

My car has broken down.

Note that we introduce phrasal verbs, but we do not give long lists of them. We think it's best to learn phrasal verbs like other words, one at a time as they are needed. In our opinion grouping them together, as some grammars do, only causes confusion.

For prepositional verbs, see pages 298–299.

'When it is not necessary to change, it is necessary not to change.'

(Lucius Cary)

'It was such a lovely day I thought it was a pity to get up.'

(W Somerset Maugham)

'It's easy to see the faults in people I know; it is hardest to see the good, especially when the good isn't there.'

(Will Cuppy)

'Anybody who has ever struggled with poverty knows how extremely expensive it is to be poor.'

(James Baldwin)

'It is impossible to enjoy idling thoroughly unless one has plenty of work to do.'

(Jerome K Jerome)

irlanguage

revise the basics: imperatives; let's

We use imperatives to tell people what to do, advise them, encourage them etc.

Imperatives look the same as infinitives without to.

Look in the mirror before you drive off. Try again. Have some more tea.

Negative imperatives begin with do not/don't. (Note: these can be used before be.)

Please do not lean out of the window. Don't worry. Don't be silly!

Note the position of always and never before imperatives.

Always try to tell the truth. (NOT Try always ...) Never do that again.

Choose the best way of completing each sentence.

- Always add) Never add salt to potatoes when you cook them.
- 1 Always check / Check always the tyres before you drive a car.
- 2 Believe / Don't believe everything that people say.
- 3 Always cook / Never cook chicken when it's frozen.
- 4 Wait / Don't wait more than fifteen minutes for somebody who's late.
- 5 Always unplug / Unplug always electrical appliances before repairing them.
- 6 Count / Don't count your change after buying something.
- 7 Always put off / Never put off till tomorrow what you can do today.
- 8 Always say / Never say 'I will love you for ever'.
- 9 Be not / Don't be afraid.

We can use let's (or let us – very formal) + infinitive without to to make suggestions or give orders to a group that includes the speaker.

Let's have a drink. Let's stay in this evening.

The normal negative is Let's not ...; Don't let's ... is informal; Let us not is very formal.

Let's not tell Granny what happened.

Write the suggestions, using Let's (not).

Note also the common expressions let me see and let me think.

So what time will I get there? Let me see – suppose I start at half past six ... What am I going to wear? Let me think – it's too cold for the black dress ...

revise the basics: verbs with two objects

COMMON VERBS WITH TWO OBJECTS:

bring buy cost get give leave lend make offer owe pass pay play promise read refuse send show sing take teach tell wish

Many verbs can have two objects - one direct and one indirect. Usually the indirect object refers to a person, and this often comes first.

He gave his wife a camera. I wish you a Merry Christmas.

If we put the indirect object last, we use a preposition (usually to or for).

I passed my licence to the policeman. Mum bought the ice cream for you, not for me.

Chanas	AL -	structure.

	I took the report to Mrs Samuels.
	Would you get me a beer?
10	We owe £20,000 to the bank.
	I offered the class free tickets.
	I wrote a letter to the doctor.
	Sing the children a song.
	Can you bring the newspaper to me?
15	Pay Mrs Jones €200, please.

Write about yourself: complete the sentences, using two objects.

I would like to send my mother some flowers.

1 I would like to buy

2 I never lend

3 I must write

4 I think it's difficult to teach 5 Nobody has ever given

Explain, say, suggest and describe do not have the indirect object first.

Can you explain the plan to us? (NOT Can you explain us the plan?) I've come to say goodbye to you. (NOT ... to say you goodbye.)

I suggested a new method to her. (NOT I suggested her a new method.)

Describe your wife to me. (NOT Describe me your wife.)

'Get me the Zoo, please, Miss Winterton.'

revise the basics: causative have and get

Have/Get something done: arrange for something to be done.

I must have my watch repaired. We need to get the curtains cleaned.

it: preparatory subject It's nice to talk to you.

When the subject of a sentence is an infinitive or a clause, we generally use it as a preparatory subject, and put the infinitive or clause later.

It's nice to talk to you. (More natural than To talk to you is nice.)
It was surprising that she didn't come back.

	Re	ewrite these sentences with It to make them more natural.

emphasis with it and what It's not tea that I want.

We can emphasise a part of a sentence by using	g the structure It is/was that. Compare:
The secretary sent Jake the photos yesterday.
It was the secretary that/who sent Jake the photo	os yesterday. (not the boss)
It was Jake that the secretary sent the photos to yo	esterday. (not Bill)
It was the photos that the secretary sent Jake yes	terday. (not the drawings)
It was yesterday that the secretary sent Jake the p	photos. (not last week)

Another way of emphasising is to use a structure with what (='the thing(s) that'). Compare:

The wind keeps me awake. What keeps me awake is the wind.

I need a change. What I need is a change. (OR A change is what I need.)

We can use all (that) (meaning 'the only thing that') in the same way as what.

All I need is a home somewhere. All I did was touch him.

phrasal verbs Look out! I'll think it over.

English has a large number of phrasal verbs, made up of a verb and a small word (adverb particle) like at, in, on, up, down, away, out. The adverb particles are not the same as prepositions (though some of them have the same form). Phrasal verbs are very common in an informal style.

- 9 I'll think over your suggestion.
- 10 I couldn't put down the book, it was so interesting.

time to tidy up

very now and then you decide it's time to tidy up, don't you? Because you just can't find anything. So you pick up all the stuff that's been lying around on the floor since Adam was a lad. You throw out the old magazines that you're never going to read again. You give back the books and music that you borrowed from the people upstairs when you were all much younger. You take down your old posters and put up the new ones you bought three years ago to replace them. You sort out the papers on your desk, arrange some of them in systematic-looking piles, and throw away the others. Finally you put on some relaxing music, pour yourself a drink, and sit back with a feeling of satisfaction. A good job done. Only one small problem, which you slowly discover over the next few days: you just can't find anything.

SECTION 11 articles: a/an and the

GRAMMAR SUMMARY

A/An shows that we are talking about one person or thing. We often use a/an:

in descriptions

She's a kind woman. He's got an interesting face.

when we say what something is, or what somebody's job is.

This is an earring. She's a farmer.

The usually means 'You know which one(s) I'm talking about'.

Can I use the bathroom? (The hearer knows that this means 'your bathroom'.)

Nouns used without articles often have a special meaning.

I'm interested in birds. (This means 'all birds'.)

Most Western European languages have articles. So if you speak (for example) French, German, Spanish or Greek, you will not have too many problems with a/an and the: they are used mostly in the same way as your articles. There are a few differences: see pages 156, 157, 160, 162, 163. If you speak a non-Western-European language (for example Russian, Polish, Arabic, Chinese, Japanese), you may find articles more difficult. In that case, study all of this Section.

'Writing about art is like dancing about architecture.'

(Anonymous)

'A woman without a man is like a fish without a bicycle.' (Attributed to Gloria Steinem)

'A diplomat is a person who can tell you to go to hell in such a way that you actually look forward to the trip.'

(Caskie Stinnett)

'Equality is a lie - women are better.' (Anonymous)

'An optimist is someone who thinks the future is uncertain.' (Anonymous)

'Treat a work of art like a prince: let it speak to you first.' (Attributed to Arthur Schopenhauer)

'The happiest time of anyone's life is just after the first divorce." (John Kenneth Galbraith)

'I always pass on good advice. It is the only thing to do with it. It is never any use to oneself." (Oscar Wilde)

'An accountant is a man who is hired to explain that you didn't make the money you did.'

revise the basics: a/an and one

We use a before a consonant and an before a vowel.

But it depends on the pronunciation of the following word, not the spelling.

a dog a hat a one-pound coin (/ə 'wʌn ... /) a union (/ə 'ju:nɪən/) an orange an uncle an hour (/ən ˈaʊə/) an MP (/ən em ˈpi:/)

A or an?

, ,,	of an:

17	exam

'Good morning, Mr Dolby. It's 5.15 a.m., and this is radio station WJRM. If you name the next tune you will win a ride on an elephant and two tickets to a rock concert!'

We use one, not a/an:

18 school

- in contrast with another or other(s)
- in the expression one day
- with hundred and thousand when we want to sound precise (see page 325)
- in expressions like only one and just one.

One girl wanted to go out, but the others wanted to stay at home.

One day I'll take you to meet my family.

'How many are there? About a hundred?' 'Exactly one hundred and three.'

We've got plenty of sausages, but only one egg.

A/An or one?

1 day last year – it was 2 very hot afternoon in June – I was hurrying to get home. I was about ³ hour late – well, to be precise, exactly ⁴ hour and ten minutes: I had missed my train. Anyway, there was 5 woman standing under the trees, and there were several children with her. I saw 6 child clearly – she was ' lovely dark-haired girl – but I only heard the others. Suddenly 8 strange thing happened. The girl took some stones out of her pocket, and threw 9 stone after another into the air.

revise the basics: a/an She's a farmer. He's got a long nose.

We use a/an to say what job a person does, what kind of thing somebody or something is, or what something is used as. A/An has no plural.

She's a farmer. They're farmers.

He worked as a taxi-driver. They worked as taxi-drivers.

Don't use the plate as an ashtray. Don't use the plates as ashtrays.

A/An can mean 'a particular one' (if you don't say exactly who or which).

A man called while you were out.

Thoro's alan

James married a doctor.

I've bought a new bike.

Complete these sentences in any way you like.

There's a/air In my pocket/nandbag.
In my town, there's a big
If you see a/an you'll have good/bad luck.
I recently bought a/an

If I look out of the window I can see a/an
I was once bitten by a/an Yesterday I ate a/an
For my last birthday, gave me a/an My is married to a/an in my nocket/handhag

NOTE

We don't use a/an with uncountable nouns. (NOT a rain)

We don't use a/an with possessives. (NOT a my friend)

After kind of or sort of, a/an is usually dropped: a kind of tree (NOT a kind of a tree) In exclamations with what, a/an is not dropped. What a pity! (NOT What pity!)

A/An usually comes after quite, rather and such: quite/rather/such a nice day.

In the plural, we use no article or some (see page 170), not a/an.

They both married doctors. Some men called.

revise the basics: the Please close the door.

The means 'you know which (one/ones) I mean'.
I bought a TV and a radio, but the radio didn't work. (= the radio just told you about - you know which one. The women over there work with my sister. (= the women I'm showing you - you know which ones.) Please close the door. (You can see which one.) He's been to the North Pole. (It's obvious which - there's company to the pole.))
We often use the with only and with superlatives.
She's the only woman for me. It's the best restaurant in	n town.
Put in the if the speaker and hearer probably k Put in a/an if not. 1 Who opened window? 2 She lives in centre of Glasgow. 3 I'd like glass of water. 4 My sister is married to farmer. 5 man in next flat is Fren. 6 He's oldest child in sch. 7 Who's girl by piano? 8 There's strange man in 9 Today is only day that I'm free. 10 'Which coat is yours?' Imagine that you are talking to a friend in your If you say the following expressions, will he/sh If not, add some words so that he/she will know the teacher / the boss	ne know which one(s) you probably mean?
4 the floor	11 the government revise the basics: generalisations without the I like music.

The does not mean 'all'.

We do not use the in generalisations with plural and uncountable nouns. Compare:

I like music. (NOT ... the music.)
She's very interested in nature.
People have to live in society.
Books are expensive.

Can you turn off the music?
What is the nature of his illness?
I've joined the Poetry Society.
Put the books on the table.

Put the or – (= no article) in each blank.

There must be something wrong with me. 1 people usually think that 2 babies are sweet and 3 teenagers are annoying. Not me. I think 4 babies are boring. For me, 5 children start being interesting at 6 age when you can understand 7 things that they say. But 8 years that I like best are 9 period between ages thirteen and twenty. Oh, it's difficult at times, but I still prefer talking about 10 life with a teenager to cleaning a baby's bottom.

We do not normally use the in generalisations with plural and uncountable nouns, even if there is an adjective before the noun.

She's studying Chinese history. (NOT ... the Chinese history.)

He collects antique clocks.

But we use the when a description with of follows the noun.

She's studying the history of China.

2 Use some adjectives from the box, or other adjectives, to write true (or false!) sentences about yourself. Don't use the.

аіг casual classical detective foggy formal historical Italian loud really hot romantic train pop quiet spicy stormy

SECTION 12 determiners

GRAMMAR SUMMARY

this, that, these, those some, any, no all, each, every both, either, neither much, many, a little, a few enough too much/many less, least more, most a lot, lots which, what (articles a/an, possessives my, your etc)

Determiners are words that come at the beginning of noun phrases, before adjectives.

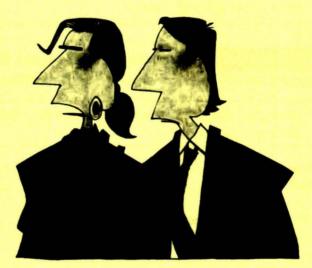

Determiners help to show which or how much/many we are talking about.

this small dog some new suggestions all Scottish towns enough time

Most determiners are explained and practised in this section (together with other uses of too and enough). Articles have a separate section on pages 155–166. Possessive determiners are explained together with pronouns on pages 189–191.

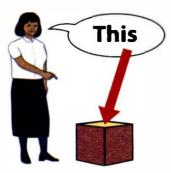

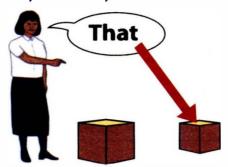

'Yes, of course it's important enough to disturb him.'

'Straighten your tie, Stephen. The world is already filled with enough disorder.'

revise the basics: this, that, these, those

DO IT YOURSELF Study the examples, and think about the difference between this/these and that/those.

Come and look at this picture. This isn't a very good party. Do you like this music? Listen - this will make you laugh. (on the phone) This is Emma. This is my friend Paula. These shoes are hurting my feet. These grapes are really sweet.

What's that on the roof? He's ill. That's why he's away. Stop that noise! Thanks - that was a great meal. (on the phone) Who's that? I didn't like those stories he told. Do you remember those people we met in Edinburgh?

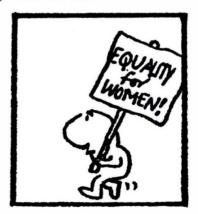

2 DO IT YOURSELF Look at the examples again. Which words and expressions in the box go with this/these, and which go with that/those?

	happening now unwanted	said before	just about to start	here	near	over there
HIS/THESE:

Pı	Put in this/that/these/those.
1	Why am I living in country?
2	Get me box from the table.
3	Ugh – potatoes taste burnt!
4	What was noise?
5	Who are people over there?
6	Come way, please.
7	Isn't weather great?
8	Did you hear explosions in the night?
9	Tell her to stop shouting.
10	was a great party – thanks.

12	Why did she marry idiot?
13	Do it way, not like
14	Listen – you're not going to believe

15 Look at earrings. Jamie gave them to me.

'My wife told me to carry this/that.'

revise the basics: some and any

Some means 'a certain (not large) number or amount of'.

We use some mostly in affirmative (+) sentences.

We also use some in questions when we expect or invite people to say 'Yes'

(for example, in requests and offers).

She's got some interesting ideas.

To

deas. There's some mud on the carpet.

'Could I have some coffee?' 'Sure. And would you like some biscuits?'

We use any instead of some in negative sentences, in most questions, and with if.

Do you know any good jokes?

He hasn't got any money.

If you find any mistakes, please tell me.

The difference between somebody/anybody, someone/anyone, something/anything etc is the same as the difference between some and any.

There's somebody outside. Would you like something to drink?

Does anybody understand this?

She didn't say anything.

Put in some, any, somebody, anybody, something or anything.

- 1 I can't find butter, but we've got margarine.
- 2 Did you meet interesting at the party?
- 3 Emma has got old pictures of the house. 11 If you have problems, just
- 4 Can I offer you wine?
- 5 Do you know German?
- 6 Helen brought me beautiful roses.
- 7 Is there I can do?

- 8 There's waiting to see you.
- 9 I haven't got to wear.
- 10 Shall we listen to music?
- 11 If you have problems, jus phone me.
- 12 Have you got children?
- 13 Would you like to help you?
- 14 There aren't buses on Sunday.

We use any with words like never, hardly, without, refuse, doubt (which have a negative kind of meaning).

She never has any fun. We got there without any difficulty. I refuse to give him any help.

Here are some sentences with any. Which word in each sentence gives the 'negative kind of meaning'?

- ▶ He never listens to anyone.
- We've hardly got any cat food.
- 1 The baby refuses to eat anything.
- 2 I doubt if you'll find any bread now.
- 3 There was hardly anybody in town.
- 4 You never get any sense out of her.
- 5 You seldom hear any birds here.
- 6 I left the house without any money.

3 Choose the right word.

- 1 Have you got some / any time free on Wednesday afternoon?
- 2 There's something /anything strange about the way Pete's acting today.
- 3 Nobody can find out something / anything about when the exams will be.
- 4 Is there something / anything we should bring to the meeting?
- 5 Shall I bring you something /anything to read while you wait?
- 6 Do you know if some / any of the Morrises are coming on Sunday?
- 7 Can I get you some / any coffee? I've just made some / any.
- 8 She refuses to have something / anything to do with her family now.
- 9 If there's some / any soup left, could you put it in the fridge, please?
- 10 I doubt if there's something / anything we can do now.

some/any or no article Have some toast. I don't like toast.

We use some and any to talk about limited numbers	or quantities. Compare:
LIMITED NUMBERS/QUANTITIES NOT LIMITED
'Have some toast.' ('one or two pieces')	'No thanks. I don't like toast.' ('toast in general')
I need some new clothes	She always wears nice clothes.
Is there any water in the fridge?	Is there water on the moon?

We don't normally use some in descriptions.

She's got black hair. (NOT She's got some black hair.)

We don't use some when we say what people/things are.

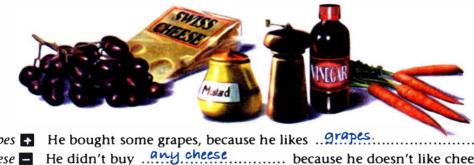

Andy and John are students. (NOT Andy and John are some students.)

Join the beginnings and ends.

any = 'one or another – it's not important which'

We can use any to mean 'one or another – it's not important which'. With this meaning, any is common in affirmative (+) sentences.

'When shall I come and see you?' 'It doesn't matter - any time.'

'What newspaper do you want?' 'I don't mind. Any paper is OK.'

In negative sentences, we can use just any to make this meaning clear.

I don't do just any work: I choose jobs that interest me.

O

Complete each sentence with any and a word from the box.

bank boy bus colour day doctor 🗸 problems question supermarket Any doctor will tell you to stop smoking. 1 He gets angry with who talks to his girlfriend. 2 'Would you like red, blue, ...?' 'It doesn't matter. is OK.' 3 You can get this kind of rice in 5 If you have, come and ask me for help. 6 'When shall we meet?' 'I don't mind. this week.' 7 'Where can I change money?' 'In'

We can use anybody, anything and anywhere to mean 'it's not important who/what/where'.

8 You can't take just – you need a 4 or a 16.

It's easy. Anybody can do it. That dog eats anything – meat, bread, shoes, ...
'Where shall I sit?' 'Anywhere you like.' She doesn't go out with just anybody.

- B 'It's true. Ask'
- C 'Yes. Put it you like.'
- D Anybody .. can do it.
- E He can play
- F ' in America.'

Any is not negative – it is the opposite of no or not any. Compare:

That's easy: anybody can do it. That's too hard: nobody can do it.
I'm really hungry – I'll eat anything. I'm not hungry – I don't want anything.

- 7 Anna's very secretive: she talks to anybody / nobody about her problems.
- 8 Jim tells his problems to anybody /nobody who will listen.

revise the basics: much, many, a lot (of)

We use much with singular (uncountable) nouns and many with plurals.
How much time have we got? How many tickets do we need?
Much and many are most common in questions and negatives. In informal affirmative (+) sentences, we generally prefer a lot (of), lots (of) or plenty (of). These can be used with both uncoun bles and plurals.
Do you have much trouble with English?''I don't have much trouble speaking, but I have lots of difficulty writing.' NOT much difficulty)
Are there many opera houses in London?' 'Not many, but a lot of theatres and plenty of cinemas.'
NOT many theatres and many cinemas.)

Put in much/many with so, as, too.
1 It was nice to have time to talk to you.
2 Are there chairs as people?
3 You can never havelove.
4 I don't have friends as you.
5 She's got relatives!
6 Get tickets as you can.
n a formal style, many and much are more common in affirmative sentences.
Many commentators have already thrown much darkness on this subject, and it is probable that if this continues we shall soon know nothing at all about it. (Mark Twain)

We can use infinitive structures with enough and too.

She's old enough to vote. I'm too tired to go out tonight.

A structure with for + object + infinitive is also possible.

It's not warm enough for me to swim. The box was too heavy for us to lift.

We can drop for + object.

It's not warm enough to swim. The box was too heavy to lift.

- 6 Complete the sentences with enough or too.
 - ► Sally's not ...old enough to take the dog for a walk. (old / take)
 - The food was too spicy for the children to eat. (spicy / children / eat)

- 7 Death is one of the things that can be done as easily lying down. (Woody Allen)
- 8 people can be happy unless they hate some other person, nation or creed. (Bertrand Russell)

Little and few are rather negative: they mean 'not much/many'.

A little and a few are more positive: their meaning is more like 'some'.

Cactuses need little water.

Give the roses a little water every day.

His ideas are very difficult, and few people understand them.

His ideas are very difficult, but a few people understand them.

Little or a little? Few or a few?

- 1 There is use trying to change her mind.
- 2 Could you possibly give me help?
- 3 teenagers in the village could read.
- 4 Slowly, children began coming to school.
- 5 I only need minutes to get ready.
- 6 She only wanted love, kindness.
- 7 Nadia drank coffee and no alcohol.
- 8 Unfortunately, he had friends.

Little and few (without a) are rather formal; in a conversational style we more often say only a little/few or not much/many.

Cactuses only need a little water. Not many people understand his ideas.

Rewrite these sentences in a more conversational style.

- I have little time. I've only got a little time. OR I haven't got much time.
- 1 We have few friends.
- 2 There is little that I can do for you.
- 3 Few people wanted to help her.

less and least, fewer and fewest

Less and fewer are comparative (see page 228): they are the opposite of more.

Least and fewest are superlative (see page 228): they are the opposite of most.

Less and least are used with singular (uncountable) nouns.

Fewer and fewest are used with plural nouns.

I've got less money than I thought.

Of all my friends, Jake does the least work.

There were fewer problems than we expected.

Mandy was the person who made the fewest mistakes in the translation exam.

revise the basics: all, every, everybody, everything

We can use all with plural nouns and verbs. We use every with singular nouns and verbs.
All birds lay eggs. Every bird lays eggs. (NOT Every birds lay eggs.)
We can use other determiners (the, my, this etc) after all, but not after every.
All the shops were closed. Every shop was closed. (NOT Every the shop)
Rewrite the sentences with every. All the players were tired. Every player was tired. Not all birds can fly. I've read all the newspapers. Please listen to all the words. All the roads were under water. All languages are difficult in one way or another. All London trains are cancelled today. The police have interviewed all the employees. All the plates are dirty.
9 Not all changes are good.
10 All the computers are down today.
We don't normally use all without a noun to mean 'everybody'.
Everybody was tired. (NOT All were tired.)
 Put in all or everybody. 1
We can use all to mean 'everything' or 'the only thing', but only with a relative clause (all that).
She gave me all/everything (that) she had. All (that) I want is a place of my own. The thieves took everything. (NOT The thieves took all.)
Put in all if possible; if not, put in everything. 1 9 I want is you. (song title)

every and each; every one

Every and each mean the same. They are both used with singular nouns and verbs. Every is more common.

Every/Each day brings a new problem.

We use every for three or more. We use each for two or more.

She had a ring on every finger. She had a bag in each hand. (NOT ... in every hand.)

Right or wrong? Correct the mistakes or write 'Correct'.

both, either and neither

We use both, either and neither to talk about two people or things.

Both (● + ● = 'one and the other') has a plural noun.

Either (● / ● = 'one or the other') has a singular noun.

Neither (■ ■ = 'not either, not one and not the other') has a singular noun.

'Do you speak French or Spanish?' 'I speak both languages.'

'Which one is easier for you?' 'Either language is OK.'

'How about writing?' 'No, I can't write very well in either language.'

'And your wife?' 'No, she speaks neither language.'

Put in both, either or neither.

'We have high quality and low prices.
Which do you want?'

Before of and one, we can use which but not what.

Which of the countries in Europe have you visited? (NOT What of ...?)
Look at all those stars. Which one is the nearest? (NOT What one ...?)

When there is no noun, we use who for people, not which. Compare:

Which boxer won? Who won? (NOT Which won?)

Which, what or who?

1	of the books on the list have you already read?
2	There are two coats on the bed one is yours?
3	I really don't know earrings to wear with this dress.
4	time shall we meet tomorrow?
5	of your brothers is the one who works in Paris?
6	got the job, Andy or Liz?
7	language do you speak at home?
8	I don't remember of your parents plays the piano.
9	gave you that – John or Alex?
10	I can come to your place, or we can meet at mine is best for you?

other(s) and another

When other is used before a plural noun, it does not have. When other is used without a noun, it has -s in the plural. C
Tell the other people. (NOT the others people.) Tell the other people.	others.
Can you show me some other shoes? Can you show me so	ome others?
Write other or others. 1 I could see Karima and Nedjma at their desks – bu 2 Long after all the	wson's BMW was still there. ed and Lucy, OK? tht have a reason to do this? colours? n't children. d
We can use another (one word) to mean 'one more'. But wit	h uncountables and plurals, we do not generally use other to mean 'more'. Compare:
Have another potato. (NOT an other potato.) Have some more meat. (NOT other meat.) We need more cups.
2 friends3 child4 hour5 mile	7 job
We can use another + few or another + a number with a plu	ral noun.
Let's wait another few minutes. (= ' a few more minutes.') The job will take another ten days. (= ' ten more days.')
Change the expressions to use another. three more pages another three pages another.

determiners and of most people; most of us

We use determiners (some, any, much, many, more, most, few, enough etc) with of before other determiners (the, this, my etc) and before personal pronouns (it, us etc).

(the, this, my etc) and before personal pronouns (it, us etc).
DETERMINER + OF	DETERMINER WITHOUT OF
 before the: some of the matches we played before this etc: more of that coffee before my etc: most of our meals before it, us etc: enough of it most of them 	some matches (NOT some of matches) more coffee I'll have more. most meals I cook most. enough water most elections
The same thing happens with numbers one, two etc.
two of the dogs four of my friends	two dogs four friends
Before of we use every one, not every, and none, not no.
every one of the dogs none of my friends	every dog no friend

Put in of or nothing (-).

Dear Phil,

Well, some 1 our luggage has arrived, so things could be worse. I've got the books and papers, but I've lost most 2 my clothes. I haven't got any 3 socks at all, and I'll have to buy some more 4 jeans, but at least I've got enough 5 underwear for the week. (They don't sell it here. I don't think they wear it.) I'm going to buy a few 6 those woollen shirts that you like, and one 7 the big coats that we looked at. They've got no ⁸ shoes in my size, unfortunately, and none ⁹ the jackets suit me. Anyway, I'm not alone. Every one 10 us has lost something – in fact, three 11 people have got no 12 luggage at all. Well, as they say, into each 13 life a little 14 rain must fall. See you on the 17th.
Andy

Note the difference between most people (talking about people in general) and most of the people (talking about particular people).

Most people want to have children. Most of the people I know live in the country.

Put in most people or most of the people.

1	enjoy talking about themselves.
2	who wanted to see the match were disappointed.
3	I know in our street.
4	like dancing.
5	I think fishing for sport is wrong, but would disagree.
6	on the train were going on holiday.
7	He gets on with
8	at the party were friends of Jan's.
9	I work with live in London.
10	would like more money and less work.

NOTE: we often drop of after all and both. After a lot / lots / plenty we always use of with a noun or pronoun (see page 173).

all (of) my problems both (of) her brothers a lot of good ideas (NOT a lot good ideas)

We use pronouns when it is not necessary, or not possible, to use a more exact noun phrase.

Jake emailed me yesterday. He said ...

(The speaker uses the personal pronoun he because it is not necessary to repeat 'Jake'.)

Karen talks about herself all the time.

(It is unnecessary to repeat 'Karen'.)

In this section we explain uses of personal pronouns (I, me, you etc), possessives (my, your etc and mine, yours etc), reflexives (myself, yourself etc) and each other.

'I used to do it all myself, but now I have my lawyers handle it.'

'For your first effort you should write about something you understand. Don't write about yourself.'

revise the basics: I, me, my, mine etc

1	I like your dog. What's name?
	is that car? parked in front of my garage.
3	Do you know the woman talking to Elizabeth?
4	The company's in trouble closing three of factories.

possessives a friend of mine Anne broke her arm.

We don't put possessives immediately after articles or after this/that etc. Instead, we use the structure a/this etc... of mine/yours etc.

She's a friend of mine. (NOT She's a my friend:)
How's that brother of yours? (NOT How's that your brother?)

4	1	Use this structure to	ioin	tha	idaac

We often use possessives with parts of the body and clothes.

Anne broke her arm skiing. (NOT Anne broke the arm skiing.) He stood there, his eyes closed and his hands in his pockets.

We often use the instead of a possessive in expressions with prepositions, especially when we talk about common kinds of pain and physical contact, and when the possessor has already been mentioned.

He's got a pain in the chest. She hit me on the head. I looked him in the eye.

We generally use who as both subject and object. Whom is unusual, especially in questions, except in a formal style. (For whom in relative clauses, see page 269.)

Who do you want to see? (More natural than Whom do you want to see?)

We use it to refer to nothing, everything, something and anything.

We also use it when we answer questions about who people are.

Nothing is ever the way you expect it to be.

'Who's the woman in red?' 'It's Clara Lewis.' (NOT 'She's Clara Lewis.')

People generally use he and she for their cats, dogs, horses etc; some people use she for their cars, motorbikes and boats. Countries are usually it.

You can take my horse, but don't ride him on the main road - he's a bit nervous.

'How's the car?' 'She's running beautifully.'

SECTION 14 nouns

GRAMMAR SUMMARY

English nouns can be countable (we can say two dogs) or uncountable (we can't say two waters). Countable nouns have plurals (dogs), and we can use a/an with them (a dog, an apology). Uncountable nouns have no plurals, and we can't use a/an before them.

Some English uncountable nouns are countable in some other languages (like information).

We can join two nouns:

- with a possessive 's or s' (for example my sister's car, my parents' neighbours).
- with a preposition (for example the top of the hill).
- directly one after the other (for example orange juice, a flower shop).

Usually, an idea can be expressed in only one of these ways, and it is often difficult to know which is correct. The rules on pages 207–210 will help, but there are exceptions – this is a difficult point of grammar.

One potatoe, two potatoes

IN JUNE 1992, US Vice-President Dan Quayle visited a school class in New Jersey while the children were having a spelling competition. When 12-year-old William Figueroa wrote the word potato correctly on the blackboard, Quayle told him he should add an e. William became a schoolchildren's national hero (without an e) and appeared on television; the Vice-President became an international laughing-stock as echoes (with an e) of his mistake went round the world.

revise the basics: possessive 's

SINGULAR noun(s) + 's: my mother's car Sarah and Henry's house (NOT Sarah's and Henry's house)

PLURAL noun + ': my parents' home

IRREGULAR plural + 's: the children's names

1) Make possessive forms from the expressions in List 1, to combine with expressions from List 2. Make fifteen combinations.

LIST 1 your sister Jonathan Emily and Claire those women my teachers Katie our dog Simon and Jill most people doctors

LIST 2 address car/cars ideas health legs father/fathers nose/noses clothes education fear of heights your sister's address	8

>	my teachers' clothes	9
4		13
5		14
7

Possessives usually replace articles before nouns. We can say the car or Sue's car, but not Sue's the car or the Sue's car.

But a possessive word can have its own article: the boss's car.

NOTE ALSO: that car of Sue's; a friend of Joe's (like a friend of mine – see page 191).

2 Right or wrong? Correct the mistakes or write 'Correct'.

- my mothers car ...mother's
- Anna's sister. Correct.
- 1 Is this the teacher's pen?
- 2 Are you the Al's daughter?
- 3 Do you know Lesley's last name?
- 4 Here's the Barry's address.
- 5 Here's my parents' address.
- 6 It was the school's responsibility.
- 7 What's the Wilsons' number?
- 8 That's an old habit of Marion's.
- 9 It's a crazy idea of Alice.
- 10 Where is that brother of Carol?

'I laid 67,000 eggs last year, and if I don't receive a Mother's Day card there'll be trouble.'

NOTE: We spent the evening at Cathy's. (='... at Cathy's house.')

She's at the hairdresser's. I bought it at Harrod's.

possessive 's or of ... my father's name; the name of the book

We use the possessive 's structure especially when the first noun is the name of a person , group of people , organisation , country or animal . In other cases we generally prefer a structure with of . Compare:
my father's name the firm's structure America's influence the dog's head	the name of the book the structure of plastic the influence of alcohol the head of the bed
We also use the possessive 's structure with common 'time when' expressions, and in expressions of measurement of time.
today's paper tomorrow's v a month's holiday three hol	veather yesterday's news urs' delay

revise the basics: noun + noun

We often put one noun in front of another. The first noun is rather like an adjective, and is usually singular, even if the meaning is plural.
a horse race (a kind of race) a race horse (a kind of horse) a shoe shop (NOT a shoes shop) a Lancashire man a ten-mile walk (NOT a ten-miles walk)

Articles belonging to the first noun are dropped in this structure. Officers in the army = army officers, NOT the army officers.

d	Match the expressions on the left with their meanings on the right.

0	coffee table	A	shoe made of leather
1	chocolate milk	В	book describing cases
2	milk chocolate	C	chocolate made with milk
3	book case	D	leather for making shoes
4	case book	E	drawing done in ink
5	leather shoe	F	garden with flowers in
6	shoe leather	G	ink used for drawing
7	flower garden	Н	milk flavoured with chocolate
8	garden flower	I	piece of furniture for books
9	ink drawing	J	flower that grows in gardens

Note the difference between, for example, a water bottle (a bottle for water, which may be full or empty) and a bottle of water (a bottle with water in).

noun + noun or preposition road signs; signs of anger

We use the noun + noun structure for well-known everyday combinations. To talk about things that do not go together so often, we usually prefer a structure with a preposition .
Compare:
a war film a film about a dog (NOT a dog film) a history book a book about violins (NOT a violin book) a postman a man from the bank (NOT a bank man) road signs signs of anger (NOT anger signs) a corner table the girl in the corner (NOT the corner girl)
Eight of these ideas can naturally be expressed by 'noun + noun'. Which are they? Rewrite them.
1 a cake made of chocolate
2 a child in the garden
3 a cupboard in the kitchen
4 a box for matches
5 paste for cleaning teeth
6 discussions about furniture
8 a bottle designed for wine
9 a timetable of trains
10 a book about the moon
11 chairs for the garden
12 a man with a hat
2 Look at the labels. Can you think of five more names of food that use the noun + noun structure?
Blackcurrant
Juice

CHICKEN !
Newspaper headlines often save space by using the noun + noun structure instead of the preposition structure.
Strings of three or four nouns are common.

'What sort of cake would you like?' 'A big one with cream.'

I'd like some shoes like the ones in the window.

'Could you lend me a pen?' 'Sorry, I haven't got one.'

We don't use one for an uncountable noun.

We haven't got fresh cream. Would you like tinned? (NOT ... tinned one.)

Put in words and expressions from the box with or without one(s).

If there is no adjective, we do not use a with one.

'What sort of cake would you like?' 'One with cream.' (NOT 'A one ...)

We use some/any without ones. We use mine etc instead of my one etc.

10 Don't wash this in warm water. Use

SECTION 15 adjectives and adverbs

GRAMMAR SUMMARY

Adjectives are words like easy, slow, sorry, important. They can go before nouns, or after some verbs (e.g. be, seem, look, appear, smell, taste). Some kinds of adjective normally go before others (e.g. opinion before description).

an interesting old cathedral

The exact rules are complicated (and not very important).

Adverbs are words like easily, slowly, yesterday, there. Different kinds of adverb go in different positions, for example with the verb, or at the end of a sentence.

Harry often goes to Denmark. I've neve l've never seen a rhinoceros.

You are probably right.

I only play tennis with Gary.

The team played badly last night.

Some words (e.g. fast, loud, daily) can be both adjectives and adverbs.

Many adverbs end in -ly (e.g. carefully). But a few words ending in -ly are adjectives (e.g. friendly).

'If a thing is worth doing, it is worth doing well.'

(Traditional)

'If a thing is worth doing, it is worth doing badly.'

(G K Chesterton)

'Speak softly and carry a big stick.'
(President Theodore Roosevelt)

'Power tends to corrupt and absolute power corrupts absolutely.'

(Lord Acton)

'[You are] incredibly, inordinately, devastatingly, immortally, calamitously, hearteningly, adorably beautiful.'

(The poet Rupert Brooke to the actress Cathleen Nesbitt) revise the basics: adjectives, adverbs of manner

ADJECTIVES: kind, shy, cold, angry, wonderful, bad, unusual, mad

ADVERBS OF MANNER: kindly, shyly, coldly, angrily, wonderfully, badly, unusually, madly

We use adjectives after some verbs, to say how something is, seems, becomes, looks, feels, sounds, tastes or smells.

She is kind. She seems/appears shy. It's getting cold. He felt angry (NOT He felt angrily.) That smells wonderful.

We use adverbs of manner with other verbs to say how something happens or is done.

She spoke kindly but shyly. (NOT She spoke kind ...) He answered me coldly. He closed the door angrily.

Complete the sentences with words from the box.

beautiful	beautifully	calm	calmly	slow	slowly	terrible	terribly unhappy	unhappily

- 1 I suppose I should be nervous, but I've never felt so in my life.

- 4 This soup tastes
- 5 He spoke very, but she heard every word like a shout.
- 6 The train was very; perhaps they were working on the line.
- 7 This is a house. I enjoy looking at it every time I walk past.
- 8 The team played last Saturday.
- 9 Time seemed to go so When would he arrive?
- 10 He looks really I wonder what's wrong.

We also use adverbs before adjectives, past participles, other adverbs and prepositional expressions.

It's terribly cold. (NOT ... terrible cold.) This is very badly cooked. You're driving unusually fast. He was madly in love with her.

Choose the right word.

- 1 Angela is amazing / amazingly good with animals.
- 2 As soon as I saw him I was sure / surely he had been drinking.
- 3 Do you think that's a real / really diamond in her ring?
- 4 I read an amazing / amazingly thing in the newspaper this morning.
- 5 One leg of the chair was slight / slightly damaged.
- 6 The door was bad / badly painted.
- 7 The food was wonderful / wonderfully, but the service was awful / awfully.
- 8 The room is clever / cleverly organised so three of us can work there.
- 9 We're all complete / completely on your side.
- 10 He's acted unbelievable / unbelievably stupidly in the past year.

Some verbs are used with both adjectives and adverbs, with different meanings.

You look angry. (= 'You seem angry.') He looked angrily at the manager. (= 'He turned his eyes ...') His plan appeared impossible. (= 'His plan seemed ...')

She suddenly appeared in the window. (= 'She was visible ...') interested and interesting etc

Interested, bored, excited etc say how people feel.

Interesting, boring, exciting etc describe the people or things that cause the feelings.

I was very interested in the lesson. (NOT I was very interesting ...)

His lessons are always interesting. (NOT His lessons are ... interested:)

Do you ever get bored at work? My job's pretty boring.

adjectives without nouns in the country of the blind

We can use the + adjective (without a noun) to talk about some social groups.

the young the old the rich the poor the sick the disabled the blind the deaf the mentally ill the homeless the unemployed the dead

These expressions are plural: the blind means 'blind people'. Compare:

I'm collecting money for the blind.

Do you know the blind person next door? (NOT ... the blind next door?)

I met a blind man on the train. (NOT... a blind ...)

We can't use all adjectives in this way: we don't normally talk about the foreign or the greedy, for example.

1 Complete the sentences with expressions from the box.

the blind the dead the living the living the old the poor the poor the rich the rich the young the young

- 1 In the country of the one-eyed man is king. (Anonymous)
- 2 Love, like youth, is wasted on (Sammy Cahn)
- 3 When the rich make war on each other, it's who die. (Jean-Paul Sartre)

- 6 We owe respect to the dead; to we owe only truth. (Voltaire)

The structure is also used with the following nationality words: Dutch, English, French, Irish, Spanish, Welsh.

The Welsh have a very old literary tradition.

BUT: I like the Welshman who works in the garage. (NOT ... the Welsh ...)

- 2 Test your knowledge. Put in Dutch, English, French, Irish or Welsh.
 - 1 The have produced great painters, and are good at building canals.
 - 2 The are great musicians, and produce a famous beer called 'Guinness'.
 - 3 The have also produced great painters, and make wonderful wine.
 - 4 The are good at rugby. They have their own language, and call their country 'Cwmru'.
 - 5 'Continentals think life is a game. The think cricket is a game.' (George Mikes)

NOTE: Most other nationality words are nouns, not adjectives.

The Brazilians speak Portuguese. (NOT The Brazilian ...)

order of adjectives a terrible little boy; old and grey

This is a complicated (and not very important) point of grammar. The following rules have exceptions.
Words for colour, origin/place, material and purpose go in that order. Other adjectives come before these.

	OTHER	COLOUR	ORIGIN/PLACE	MATERIAL	PURPOSE
	old	red	Spanish	leather	riding	boots
a	funny	brown	German		beer	mug

Here are descriptions from a newspaper, a journal, a biography and a novel. Rewrite each description in the right order.

	club: jazz, local local jazz club (place before purpose)
1	buildings: modern, industrial
2	dress: evening, silk, red
3	eyes: narrow, colourless
4	trunks: black, swimming, nylon
5	frame: gold, flat
5	tie: blue, woollen
7	jacket: short, leather

Opinions often come before descriptions.

8 boots: French, ski

	OPINION	DESCRIPTION
	funny	old	buildings
a	terrible	little	boy
	nice	new	clothes

2 Rewrite these descriptions in the right order.

	books: old, terribleterrible old books (opinion + description)
1	city: Belgian, beautiful, little
2	dinner: excellent, cold
3	furniture: old, lovely
4	ideas: strange, new
5	university: grey, concrete, depressing

We use and with adjectives that refer to different parts of something. Compare:

a long green dress (NOT a long and green dress) a long green and black dress

When adjectives come after a verb, we usually put and before the last.

He was tall, dark and handsome. I'm cold, tired and hungry.

Rewrite the words in italics, adding and if necessary.

	The brick was rough/pinkrough and pink	4	The sea was cold/rough.
	a narrow/brown room narrow, brown	5	The church was old/ugly
1	hot/breezy weather	6	a quiet/tense woman
2	untidy/red hair	7	yellow/grey sand
3	The man was young/bearded.	8	The badges were red/blue.

First, next and last usually come before numbers.

the first three weeks (NOT the three first weeks) my last two holidays

- 12 I can manage to get there. (usually)
- 13 She has done that before. (never)
- 14 Something is burning. (definitely)
- 15 She has been nervous. (always)
- 16 I feel cold in your house. (never)
- 17 They were against me. (always)
- 18 We are going to win. (definitely)
- 19 February is the worst. (usually)
- 20 It is very difficult. (sometimes)

- 21 I buy them in boxes. (always)
- 22 I have tried to find it. (often)
- 23 They are fighting. (always)
- 24 She saw this ghost. (often)
- 25 You are right. (probably)

'You never tell me you hate me any more.'

If there is more than one auxiliary verb, adverbs of frequency and certainty usually go after the first auxiliary.

The roof has never been repaired. I will definitely be seeing him tonight.

Adverbs go before or after not, depending on the meaning. Compare:

It's definitely not raining. She's not often late.

even and only; end-position adverbs

Even and only can go just before the words that they emphasise.

He plays tennis even in the rain. They've lived here only a few weeks.

He eats anything – even raw potatoes. Only you could do a thing like that.

But they most often go with the verb when they focus on words later in the sentence.

He even plays tennis in the rain. They've only lived here for a few weeks.

He's rude to everybody. He's even rude to me. (NOT Even he's rude to me.)

I only liked the first part of the concert.

a	Put	in	even	or	onl	V.
		•••	CVCII	0.	0111	, .

	She talks to her brother. (only) She only talks to her brother.
1	He sings in his sleep. (even)
	I am doing this because I love you. (only)
	She gets up at six on Sundays. (even)
	He wears a suit on holiday. (even)
	She ate a piece of dry toast. (only)
	I can play very easy music. (only)
	He can't write his own name. (even)
	They make you pay for a carrier bag. (even)
9	I'm sorry. I was trying to help. (only)
10	You can ski there in summer. (even)

At the end of a sentence we often put words and expressions which say how, where and when. They most often go in that order.

She sang very well at the concert last night. The children were playing quietly in the garden.

He works in the garage on Tuesdays. (NOT ... on Tuesdays in the garage.)

He's working there now. Let's go to bed early. (NOT ... early to bed.)

We do not normally put adverbs between a verb and its object.

You speak English very well. (NOT You speak very well English.)

Can you repair my watch now? (NOT Can you repair now my watch?)

2 Put the words in brackets into the sentences (not before the verb).

- I work at night. (best)
- 1 I don't think she plays tennis. (very well)
- 2 He always moves very slowly. (in the morning)
- 3 She was crying in her room. (quietly)
- 4 We talked about it briefly. (at lunchtime)
- 5 I'm going to break the eggs into the bowl. (carefully)
- 6 Ann works at the village shop. (on Saturdays)
- 7 I paid at once. (the bill)

- 8 She speaks Japanese. (fluently)
- 9 I can't explain my feelings. (clearly)
- 10 The team played yesterday. (brilliantly)
- 11 I think we'd better open the parcel. (now)
- 12 I always worked at school. (very hard)
- 13 She practises the piano here. (every evening)
- 14 He read every word. (slowly)
- 15 Put the butter in the fridge. (at once)

After verbs of movement, the order can be different: we most often put an expression of place first. He went upstairs quietly.

SECTION 16 comparison

GRAMMAR SUMMARY

We can compare people and things with each other using as ... as, -er than or more ... than.

You're as silly as me. Luke's younger than me.

The second problem was much more difficult than the other three.

We can use the -est or the most to compare people and things with all of their group.

Carl is the fastest of the young sprinters. Ramona is the most sociable person in the class.

We use -er and -est with shorter adjectives and some short adverbs. We use more and most with other adjectives and adverbs.

Double comparatives

It's getting colder and colder. The children are more and more difficult these days.

the ... the ...

The more money she has, the more she wants.

The warmer it gets, the happier I am.

Some colourful and unusual comparisons:

as slow as a broken down snail as dirty as a dustbin lid as thick as two short planks (= 'stupid') as black as two o'clock in the morning as ugly as home-made soap as happy as a dog with two tails as poor as a church mouse as crooked as a dog's hind leg as crooked as a barrel of fish hooks as nervous as a brick wall as brave as the first man who ate an oyster as cold as an ex-wife's heart as big as the little end of nothing as welcome as a wet shoe as noisy as two skeletons dancing on a tin roof as dark as the inside of a wolf as scarce as hen's teeth as exciting as watching paint dry good - better - best bad - worse - worst far - farther/further - farthest/furthest old - older/elder - oldest/eldest little - less - least much/many - more - most

Farther/further and farthest/furthest are both used to talk about distance. We use further to mean 'additional' in some expressions. (NOT farther)

She lives three miles farther/further away from the office than I do. further education further information further discussion

Elder and eldest are used with brother, sister, son, daughter, grandson, granddaughter.

John's my elder brother. (I have one brother older than me.) Sarah's my eldest sister. (I have more than one sister.)

revise the basics: comparative and superlative adverbs

Comparative and superlative adverbs normally have more and most. We can put the before superlative adverbs, but we often leave it out.

Could you drive more slowly? (NOT ... slowlier?)

French is the language he speaks (the) most easily.

The following adverbs have -er, -est like adjectives: early, fast, hard, late, near, soon.

Better, best, worse and worst can be used as adverbs.

1 Complete the sentences with the comparatives or superlatives of words from the box.

like and as; so and such

We can use like and as to say that things are similar.

Like is a preposition, used before a noun or pronoun.

As is a conjunction, used before subject + verb or a prepositional expression.

He runs like the wind. She looks like me.

Nobody knows her as I do. On Friday, as on Monday, we meet at eight.

Note the common expressions as I said, as you know, as you see, as usual.

Like or as?

1	He died he lived, fighting.	6	My brother isn't at all me.
2	Being in love is an illness.	7	She left she came, silently.
3	It's mended, you can see.	8	You're shy, me.
4	In Paris, in Rome, traffic is heavy.	9	Your smile is your sister's.
5	His eyes are knives.	10	I said, you're too late.

In informal speech (but not writing), many people use like as a conjunction.

Nobody loves you like I do. Like I said, she wasn't there.

To talk about jobs, functions etc, we use as, not like.

He's working as a waiter. (NOT He's working like a waiter.)

I used my shoe as a hammer.

Compare:

As your brother, I must warn you to be careful. (I am your brother.)

Like your brother, I must warn you ... (We both warn you.)

We use so before an adjective (without a noun), or an adverb.

We use such before (adjective +) noun. A/An comes after such.

She's so babyish. I'm so hungry that I could eat a horse.

... your country, which is so beautiful. (NOT ... your so beautiful country.)

I wish you wouldn't drive so fast.

She's such a baby. I didn't know you had such nice friends.

It was such a comfortable bed that I went straight to sleep.

2 Put in such or so.

- 1 The weather was cold that all the football matches were cancelled.
- 2 The book was boring that I stopped reading it.
- 3 It was a good film that I went to see it three times.
- 4 They've got a nice house that I always love staying there.
- 5 It was a hot day that nobody could do any work.
- 6 Their garden is beautiful!
- 7 His voice is pleasant that I could listen to him all day.
- 8 I don't know why she talks in a loud voice.
- 9 The canteen served bad food that nobody could eat it.

SECTION 17 conjunctions

GRAMMAR SUMMARY

after although and as if as long as before but provided that as soon as because until so that when while both ... and either ... or neither ... nor (For if, see Section 18.)

We use conjunctions to join sentences together.

I rang John because I didn't know what to do. We came home after the shops closed. She can take my bike as long as she brings it back this evening.

Some conjunctions (and the words that follow them) can go in two places.

I told him as soon as I knew. As soon as I knew, I told him.

We use present tenses to talk about the future with time-conjunctions.

I'll wait here until the office opens.

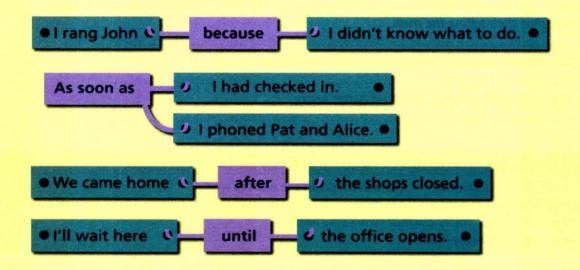

We can use perfect tenses with time conjunctions to express completion.

Traffic will be easier after they've built the new road.

As soon as I had checked in, I phoned Pat and Alice to fix a meeting.

After some conjunctions, -ing forms can be used.

Always look in the mirror before driving off.

revise the basics: use and position of conjunctions

Conjunctions join clauses into sentences. Examples: but, because, while, if.
She was poor but she was honest. I went to bed because I was tired. Can you watch the kids while I'm out? I'll do it if I can.
Those words are conjunctions. The others are not. after Yes all No although and as at because before by if or since so that this under unless until when whether with since with the words could come just before ' she went home'? Those words are conjunctions. The others are not. after Yes all No although or since until under unless until under whether with with Some conjunctions and their clauses can go either first or last in a sentence. We often use a comma (,) when the conjunction and its clause are first in the sentence.
If you need help, come and see me. Come and see me if you need help.
Write the sentences with the clauses in italics first, when this is possible. 1 I'll come round to your place after I've finished work. 2 Let's have a weekend in the country when the weather gets better. 3 You ought to see Paula before you go back to Canada. 4 I'm quite sure that she's telling the truth. 5 I enjoyed the lecture, although I didn't understand everything. 6 Your train leaves in half an hour, so you'd better hurry.
One conjunction is enough to join two clauses – we do not normally use two conjunctions.
Although she was tired, she went to work. She was tired, but she went to work. (BUT NOT Although she was tired, but she went to work.) As you know, I work very hard. You know that I work very hard. (BUT NOT As you know, that I work very hard.)
Put in a conjunction or nothing (-). Although he was very bad-tempered, revise the basics: present for future I'll tell you when I know.

If the time is made clear once in a sentence, this may be enough. So tenses are simplified after many conjunctions. For example, we often use present tenses instead of will after when, before, after, until, as soon as and if.

I'll tell you when I know myself. I'll see you before I go.

Let's go out after the rain stops. You won't get in until you buy a ticket.

I know she'll phone as soon as I go to bed. If you hold it like that, it'll break.

Look at Bill and Ann's summer dates and complete the conversation.

BILL AND ANN'S SUMMER DATES

The children will get out of school at midday on July 8th. ✓ Bill's brother will be in England from July 12th to July 14th. Bill and Ann's new car will be ready on July 17th.

Eric will go back to work on July 20th.

Ann's father will go into hospital on July 25th.

BILL:	Let's go to Eric's from the 4th to the 30th.
ANN:	No, we can't leave until the 8th. The children, remember?
BILL:	OK. We'll leave as soon as the children out of school.
ANN:	That won't work, because we'll have to be here while 1
BILL:	Then we'll go from the 15th to the 30th.
ANN:	No, we'll have to be back before ² on the 25th.
BILL:	OK. The 15th to the 24th it is.
ANN:	Well, in that case, let's wait until ³ on the 17th.
BILL:	The 17th to the 24th. Right.
ANN:	But we can't stay with Eric after 4
BILL:	Fine. The 17th to the 20th.
ANN:	No. because

If and when can be followed by will in indirect and direct questions.

I don't know if I'll be there. They haven't said when it'll be ready. When will I see you again?

We can also use will after if in polite requests.

If you will just come this way ...

using certain conjunctions: so that, as long as, until etc

Do you know how to use these conjunctions: so that (purpose), while (contrast), as long as / provided (that), until, as if/though?

Let's start now, so that we're sure to have enough time.

You can go out as long as (OR provided / provided that) you tell us where you're going.

The summers here are wet, while the winters are very dry.

I'll look after the kids until you get back.

I feel as if (OR as though) I'm getting a cold.

In a formal style, whereas can be used in the same way as while.

Sound travels at 330 metres per second, whereas light travels at 300,000 kilometres per second.

In an informal style, like is often used in the same way as as if.

I feel like I'm getting a cold.

5	The hotel was nice, but it was a long way from the beach.

4 Write sentences about the pictures, beginning He/She/It looks as if ... Use expressions from the box to help you.

been painting going swimming ✓ going to rain got a cold had bad news had good news lost something seen a ghost

Because (conjunction) and because of (preposition) are different.

We stayed in because it was raining. We stayed in because of the rain.

He was able to go to university because his uncle helped him / because of his uncle's help.

Although (conjunction) and in spite of (preposition) are different.

We went out, although it was raining. We went out in spite of the rain. I got the job, although my English was bad / in spite of my bad English.

S GRAMMAR AND VOCABULARY: related nouns, verbs and adjectives.

The words in the boxes are all nouns. Make sure you know them. Use a dictionary if necessary. Then change the sentences.

	heat hunger illness ✓ rain snow ✓ unhappiness
	We drove slowly because it was snowing because of the snow.
	Although she was ill, she went on working. In spite of her illness,

7	Although he was interested in the lesson, he went to sleep.
8	I couldn't understand her because I was tired.
0	Although Lyac thirsty, I didn't drink anything leaving out that She knew I was right.

We often leave out the conjunction that in an informal style. This happens mostly after very common verbs and adjectives.

She knew (that) I was right. I'm glad (that) you're better.

1) Complete the sentences with beginnings from the box.

- 2 It's nearly three years since
- 5 She's a lot happier
- 6 Things are better

Sentences with for have a perfect tense when the meaning is 'time up to now', but other tenses are used with other meanings.

I've known her for ages. I was in that school for three years.

She's staying for another week. He'll be in hospital for a month.

conjunction + -ing or -ed after talking to you; until cooked

Some conjunctions can introduce clauses made with -ing forms. This is common with after, before, when, while and since. These -ing clauses are a little more formal than clauses with subject + verb.

After talking to you I felt better. (More formal than After I talked to you ...)

SECTION 18 if etc

GRAMMAR SUMMARY

In sentences with if, most tenses are possible.

He certainly won't come tomorrow if he came yesterday. If that was John, why didn't he say hello? If you've been to Rome, I suppose you've seen the Colosseum. Metals expand if you heat them. If you're happy, I'm happy.

Note the following three important structures:

present tenses for future:

With if (and many other conjunctions) we use present tenses to talk about the future.

I'll tell you if I get any news. (NOT ... if I will get any news.)

if + past, ... would ...

We can use past tenses with if to show that we feel something is not real or not probable now. (We normally use would in the other part of the sentence.)

If I spoke Arabic, I would go and work in Egypt.

if + past perfect, ... would have ...

To talk about unreal past events – situations that did not happen – we use if + past perfect.

(We normally use would have + past participle in the other part of the sentence.)

If I had taken Mary's advice, I would have been in deep trouble.

Triad taken mary sauvice, rivodia nave ocenim acep trouble.

These three structures are often called 'first', 'second' and 'third conditional'.

The structure with two present tenses (e.g. If you're happy, I'm happy) is sometimes called 'zero conditional', for no very good reason.

We can use unless to mean 'if not', 'except if'.

You can't work here unless you belong to the union. (= '... if you don't belong to the union.')

Note the difference between in case and if.

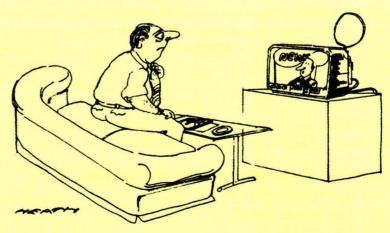

I'll take my raincoat in case it rains. (= ... because it might rain.)
I'll put my raincoat on if it rains.

Past tenses can be used to talk about the present or future not only after if, but also after it's time and would rather (= 'would prefer').

It's time you went home.

I'm busy today. I'd rather we had the meeting tomorrow.

'If we had some eggs we could have bacon and eggs if we had some bacon.'
(old army joke)

'Look, I should sit down if I were you. Have you got a drink? Now it's nothing to worry about, really it isn't...'

revise the basics: ordinary tense use

If can be used with the same tenses as most conjunctions.

If you didn't do much maths at school, you'll find economics difficult.

If that was John, why didn't he say hello? Metals expand if you heat them.

An if-clause can come at the beginning or end of a sentence. When it comes first, it is often separated by a comma (,) in writing.

If you have any problems, telephone 4966498. Telephone 4966498 if you have any problems.

Complete the sentences with expressions from the box.

I never get anything done I'm sure I can't say you're with me you don't know what's going on? she was lying we can catch the early train you park near the station you want to learn a musical instrument you won't need to do it again you're not feeling up to it

1	If anybody asks you what you're doing,
	How can you make decisions if
	If you did the test last week,
	If I don't get up till nine,
	If John couldn't fix the computer yesterday,
6	If she said she didn't know me,
7	The shops are easy to get to if
	We don't have to go out if
	If you're ready before eight,
10	You have to practise if

After if, we normally use a present tense to talk about the future. (This happens after most conjunctions.)

If I have enough time tomorrow, I'll come and see you. (NOT If I will have ...)

I'll give her your love if I see her. (NOT ... if I will see her.)

If it's fine tomorrow, I'm going to paint the windows.

2	Put in the correct tense	es (present or '//).

1	I won't be surprised if
2	I'll be very happy if
3	I'll be sorry if revise the basics: If I had a million dollars, ...

We use if + past tense + would to talk about things th	at are not real or not probable now.
IF + PAST TENSE	WOULD + INFINITIVE (WITHOUT TO)
If I had a million dollars,	I would build myself a big house.
If you were the boss,	what would you do?
If she didn't buy so many clothes,	she'd have enough money for food.
After I and we, should is possible instead of would. (Wo	ould is more common.)

8 If we some eggs,	I you a cake. (have; make)
9 If you really me, yo	ou me diamonds. (love; buy) the garden. (not be; tidy up)
11 If I the keys, I	you the cellar. (have; show)
After if, we often use were instead of was. In a formal	style, were is considered more correct.
If I were rich, I would spend all my time travelling.
Make sentences using if were.

5 it / not so cold / go for a walk
We often use the structure If I were you to give adv	ice.
If I were you, I'd get that car serviced. I shouldn't wo	rry if I were you.
White come combonics by six	. As a fairm of transmission about the second Write some sentences beginning If I were you your father / your child / the President / the I	rope revise the basics: if I go and if I went

The difference between, for example, if I go ... and if I went ... or if I speak ... and if I spoke ... is not a difference of time. They can both refer to the present or future. The past tense (+ would) usually suggests that the speaker thinks the situation is less probable, or less definite, or impossible, or imaginary. Compare: If I become President, I'll ... (said by a candidate in an election) If I became President, I'd ... (said by a schoolgirl) If I win this race, I'll ... (said by the fastest runner) Is it all right if I invite John to supper? (direct request) If I won this race, I'd ... (said by the slowest runner) Would it be all right if I invited John to supper? (polite request) Choose the most sensible verb form. 1 If I live / lived to be 70 ... 2 If I live / lived to be 150 ... 3 If I am / were better looking ... 4 If I wake / woke up early tomorrow ... 5 If Scotland declares / declared war on Switzerland ... 6 If the universe still exists / existed in five years' time ... 7 If everybody gives / gave ten per cent of their income to charity ... 8 If everybody thinks / thought like me ... 9 If there is / was nothing good on TV tonight ... 10 If my English is / was better next year ... 11 If the government bans / banned cars from city centres next year ... 12 If I have / had bad dreams tonight ... Choose the correct verb forms. 1 If she comes / came late again, she'll lose her job. 2 I'll let you know if I find / found out what's happening. 3 If we live / lived in a town, life would be easier. 4 I'm sure he won't mind if we arrive / arrived early. 5 We'll / We'd phone you if we have time. 6 If I won the lottery, I will / would give you half the money. 7 It will / would be a pity if she married Fred. 8 If I'm free on Saturday, I will / would go to the mountains. 9 She will / would have a nervous breakdown if she goes on like this. 10 I know I'll feel better if I stop / stopped smoking. Make these requests less definite, and so more polite. It will be nice if you help me a bit with the housework. It would be nice if you helped me a bit with the housework. 1 Do you mind if I go first? 2 If all of us come, will you have room in your car? 3 It will be good if you spend some time with the children.

4 Do you mind if I come round about seven o'clock?

5 Is it all right if I use your phone?

could = 'would be able to' We could go cycling if ...

We can use could to mean 'would be able to'.

If you arrived early, we could talk about the meeting. If Joe came, he could help with the dog.

Sometimes we use could twice: once as a past tense (to say that something is not real / not probable), and once for would be able to.

If I could sell my car, I could buy a computer.

Complete the sentences with could and expressions from the box.

ask her to help ✓ get up late go and see him go for a ride go to the cinema more often have breakfast in the garden read the paper ✓ watch a film write to Henry unreal past situations If Jane hadn't helped me, ...

We can use if to talk about unreal past events and situations – about how things could have been different. We use the past perfect and would have + past participle.

IF + PAST PERFECT

If Mary had felt better, If you had told me the truth, If Jane hadn't helped me, If she hadn't gone climbing, WOULD HAVE + PAST PARTICIPLE

we would have gone swimming. (But she didn't, so we didn't.) would have respected you. (But you didn't, so I didn't.) would have been in bad trouble. (But she did, so I wasn't.) wouldn't have fallen and broken her arm. (But she did.)

if only and I wish: tenses If only I knew...

If only! and wish can be used with would and past tenses. These structures express regrets, and wishes for unlikely or impossible things.
Past tenses are used to talk about the present.
If only I knew more people! I wish I was better looking.
Write sentences beginning If only or I wish. The radio doesn't work. I wish the radio worked. OR If only the radio worked! He smokes. I don't speak Russian. I haven't got a car. I'm not hard-working I'm bad at sport. I don't like dancing. It rains all the time. She works on Sundays. I can't eat eggs.
We use would after wish / if only to talk about things that we would like people or things (not) to do. This often expresses dissatisfaction or annoyance: it can sound critical.
I wish this damned car would start. If only it would stop raining!
Write sentences with If only would or I wish would Somebody won't stop talking I wish he would stop talking OR If only he would stop talking! It's not snowing. The phone keeps ringing. The baby won't stop crying. The kettle won't boil. The traffic lights won't go green. Frank hasn't written. Patrick hasn't found a job. The exam results haven't arrived. Spring hasn't come.
We use a past perfect tense to express regrets about the past. I wish you hadn't said that. If only she hadn't told the police, everything would be all right.
Complete the regrets with verbs from the box. Use the past perfect. be choose get go have look after save in case I'm taking my umbrella in case it rains.

We use in case mostly to talk about precautions – things we do to be ready for what might happen. After in case we use a present tense to talk about the future.

I wrote down her address in case I forgot it.

I've bought a chicken in case your mother stays to lunch.

We can use should after in case - this gives the idea of 'by chance'.

I've bought a chicken in case your mother should stay to lunch.

Should is common in sentences about the past.

I wrote down her address in case I should forget it.

A woman is packing to go on holiday in Austria. Make sentences:

SHE'S PACKING: a German phrase book ✓ a pack of cards a tennis racket a thick sweater a swimsuit aspirins binoculars her address book some books walking boots

IN CASE: she decides to send postcards she has time to read she meets people who play bridge she wants to go walking the hotel has a heated pool the hotel staff don't speak English 🗸 the sun gives her a headache the weather is cold there is a tennis court she wants to go bird-watching

She's packing a German phrase book in case the hotel staff don't speak English.

In case is not normally used like if. Compare:

I'll buy a bottle of wine (now) in case Roger comes (later).

I'll buy a bottle of wine (later) if Roger comes. (and if he doesn't come I won't)

If or in case?

- 1 I'm taking my umbrella with meit rains.
- 2 I'll open the umbrella.....it rains.
- 3 People phone the fire brigade their houses catch fire.
- 4 People insure their houses they catch fire.
- 5 We have a burglar alarm somebody tries to break in.
- 6 The burglar alarm will go offsomebody tries to break in.
- 7 I'll let you know......I need help.
- 8 I'll take my mobile phone I need to phone you.

it's time and I'd rather: tenses It's time you had a haircut.

After it's time, we can use an infinitive with to. After would rather (= 'would prefer'), we use an infinitive without to. It's time to go out. I'd rather stay in.

We can also use a subject and verb after these expressions. The verb is past (but with a present or future meaning). It's time you had a haircut. I'd rather they came tomorrow, not today.

visit him. She decided he was very nice, so she went to visit him again, and met a really handsome doctor. She married the doctor and they lived happily ever after.
If Anna hadn't felt hungry, she wouldn't have gone out to buy chocolate. If she hadn't gone out to buy chocolate,

SECTION 19 relatives

GRAMMAR SUMMARY

who (whom) which that what whose

We use relative pronouns to join sentences to nouns.

The girl was only 15. She got the gold medal. The girl who got the gold medal was only 15.

We use who for people and which for things. We can also use that for people and things.

There's the man who/that built our garage. They sent a letter which/that I didn't get.

Whose is a possessive relative pronoun.

I want to talk to the man whose car is parked outside our house.

Relative pronouns replace he/she/it etc. We don't use both.

(NOT The girl who she got the gold medal ...)

Where and when can be used as relatives referring to place and time.

I'll never forget the day when I first met you. (= '... the day on which ...')

Do you know a shop where I can find sandals? (= '... a shop at which ...')

We often leave out object pronouns, but not subject pronouns.

Here are those photos (which/that) you lent me.

The photos which/that show the kids are lovely. (NOT The photos show the kids ...)

Prepositions can often go in two places.

The deal about which we were talking wasn't possible. (formal)

The deal that we were talking about wasn't possible. (informal)

We can use what to mean 'the thing(s) which'.

You never get exactly what you want.

Some relative clauses identify the noun that they go with; some do not. The grammar is a little different for the two kinds.

The woman my brother is going to marry is really nice. (identifying) Sandra Peters, whom my brother is going to marry, is really nice. (non-identifying)

'Women have their faults Men have only two: Everything they say, Everything they do.' (Traditional)

'Everything I like is either illegal, immoral or fattening.'
(Traditional)

'Nothing that is worth learning can be taught.' (Oscar Wilde)

'No man can lose what he never had.' (Izaak Walton)

'A politician is a statesman who approaches every question with an open mouth.' (Adlai Stevenson)

'It's really very simple, Miss Everhart. Now you just move the cursor across the screen to the area of the world you wish to destroy.'

revise the basics: who(m), which and that

We can use sentences to describe nouns.

To join sentences to nouns, we use relative pronouns : who (for people) and which (for things).
I've got a friend. He collects stamps. → I've got a friend who collects stamps. There's a problem. It worries me. → There's a problem which worries me. Holly's lost the watch. I bought it for her. → Holly's lost the watch which I bought for her.
We use who or which instead of he, him, she, it etc. Don't use both.
The man who lives opposite has been ill. (NOT The man who he lives opposite) This is the report which you wanted. (NOT which you wanted it.)
Join the sentences in the places marked . Change he, it etc to who or which. I know a shop. It sells good coffee know a shop which sells good coffee.
 Most of the people* work in London. They live in our village. Most of the people who live in our village work in London.
1 The tomatoes* were mostly bad. You bought them.
2 The flowers* are doing well. I planted them.
3 A lot of the people* want a change of government. I know them.
4 Three of the prisoners* are still on the run. They escaped last night.
5 There's some cheese in the fridge*. It needs to be eaten.
6 I want some plates*. They can go in the microwave.
7 They haven't got the shirt* in your size. You wanted it.
8 The boy* has asked my sister out. He lives next door.
We often use that instead of which, and instead of who in an informal style.
There's a problem that you don't understand. I know some people that could help you. (informal) Rewrite sentences 1–5 from Exercise 1 using that.
1	• • • • • • • • •

Write a true sentence beginning Most of the people that I know white a true sentence beginning most of the people that throw
We normally use that , not which , after all , everything , nothing , the only and superlatives.
We do not use what in these cases (see page 271).

I've told you everything that I know. (NOT ... everything what I know.)

The only thing that matters to me is your happiness.

Whom can be used as an object for people. It is rather formal; in an informal style we often prefer who.

What is the name of that nurse whom we met last week? (formal)

What's the name of that nurse who/that we met last week? (informal)

Whom is always used after prepositions.

the woman with whom I travelled (NOT the woman with who I travelled) reading sentences with relative clauses

Relative clauses can make sentences more difficult to read.

A 36-year-old teacher who was arrested in Cardiff after trying to set fire to a school is said to have seriously injured two policemen.

The financial problems which some of the company's branches have been facing over the last eighteen months are mainly caused by increased foreign competition.

DO IT YOURSELF Why do the relative clauses make the above sentences harder to read? Circle the letter of the best explanation.

- A They separate the subject from the object.
- B They separate the subject from the verb.
- C They separate the verb from the object.

When object relative pronouns are left out, this can make reading even more difficult.

Some people we met when we were at a conference in Scotland last year have just written to invite us to stay with them. (= 'Some people that we met ...')

Extra difficulty can be caused when relative clauses end in prepositions.

The woman my friend Barbara was out shopping with was her stepmother. (= 'The woman that my friend Barbara was out shopping with ...')

(2)	Make these sentences easier to read b	v adding that .

	The earrings he gave her for Christmas must have cost at least £500.
	The earrings that he gave her
1	The parcel he got that morning was addressed to someone else.

Z	The sofa we bought last year is falling to pieces already.

3	Some papers I found lying in the street were secret government documents.
4	A picture my father bought for £5 has turned out to be worth £10,000.

5	The people he had hoped to introduce Lee to were not there.
•	The people he had hoped to minoduce but to were not mere.

5	The flat the terrorists hid the guns in was owned by an MP.

7	The song she could not remember the name of was Rambling Boy.

8	A boy I was at school with has just written a best-selling novel.

Relative clauses can put together nouns and verbs that do not belong together.

The hair of the young woman sitting next to me on the park bench was purple. (It was not the park bench that was purple.)

The picture that I put in Helen's room needs cleaning. (It's not the room that needs cleaning.)

SECTION 20 indirect speech

GRAMMAR SUMMARY

When we tell people what somebody said or thought, we often use indirect speech.

Tenses, here-and-now words (like this, here, today) and pronouns (like I, you) may change in indirect speech after past reporting verbs. This is because the time, place and speaker may be different.

'I'm going to stay here for the rest of this week.' →

Susan said that she was going to stay there for the rest of that week.

Past perfect tenses and some modal verbs (e.g. should, must) don't change in indirect speech.

"I had seen her somewhere before." → I said I had seen her somewhere before.

'You must fill in these three forms.' → They told me I must fill in three forms.

We often leave out that, especially after common verbs like say and think.

Susan said she really liked it there.

Indirect questions have a different structure from direct questions.

'Where's your luggage?' → He asked me where my luggage was.

'Do you know Karen?' → She asked me if I knew Karen.

We can use object + infinitive after some verbs, like ask and tell.

I asked him to talk more quietly. We told Oliver not to lock the garage.

And we can use infinitives after most question words.

Tell us what to do. I don't know how to switch on this computer.

He said he would love me for ever
With a love that would never grow cool.
He said he would always be faithful.
I believed every word. What a fool!
But now that he's no longer with me
I'm glad to be free of his lies.
And if I am sorry, I'm sorry for him,
For he'll be with himself till he dies.

(Leni McShaw, British poet, born 1936)

There are so many kinds of awful men – One can't avoid them all. She often said She'd never make the same mistake again. She always made a new mistake instead.

(Wendy Cope, British poet, born 1945) revise the basics: why things change

1 Look at the text, and write down all the words and expressions that are different in Tom's and Peter's sentences.

TOM (on Saturday evening): 'I don't like this party. I want to go home now.'

PETER (on Sunday morning): 'Tom said that he didn't like the party, and he wanted to go home right away.'

DOIT YOURSELF Which do you think is the best explanation for the differences? Circle A, B or C.

A After verbs like said, you change tenses and pronouns in English.

B The time, place and speakers are different.

C If the main verb is past, the other verbs have to be past too.

3 Read the dialogue. Imagine that Theo talks to a friend the next day and tells him about the conversation, using indirect speech structures (I said/told her that ...; so she asked if ...). Circle at least ten words in the conversation that would have to be changed or left out in Theo's report.

THEO: You're looking good today.

SUZY: Oh, thanks, Theo. You are sweet.

THEO: OK. If you sit down I'll get you a drink.

SUZY: There's nowhere to sit.

THEO: Yes, there is. Over there in the corner.

SUZY: I don't want to sit there. It's too dark. I'll sit here.

THEO: You can't. These seats are taken.

SUZY: No, they aren't.

THEO: Really, Suzy. Why do you always have to argue? They're taken.

SUZY: Excuse me. Are these seats taken?

JOE: Well, this one is, but the other one's free.

SUZY: OK. I'll sit here, then. Thanks.

JOE: You're welcome. What's your name?

THEO: Hey, what about me?

SUZY: Suzy. What's yours?

JOE: I'm Joe Parsons. Can I get you a drink?

SUZY: That's very kind. Can I have a bitter lemon?

THEO: I'm getting her a drink.

JOE: No, you're not, mate. I am.

THEO: I don't believe this. Suzy, what are you playing at?

SUZY: Really, Theo, I don't know what's wrong with you today. I'll see you around, OK?

revise the basics: 'here' and 'now' words

Some words may be changed in indirect speech because the original speaker's 'here' and 'now' are not the same as the reporter's.

1 DO IT YOURSELF The following sentence was said in England in November 2008:

'I've been in this part of the world since March this year.'

When does the first or second this have to be changed?

IF THE SENTENCE IS REPORTED	FIRST THIS CHANGED?	SECOND THIS CHANGED?
1 in England a week later	yes / no	yes / no
2 in England a year later	yes / no	yes / no
3 in Holland a week later	yes / no	yes / no
4 in Holland a year later	yes / no	yes / no

2 Match the direct and indirect speech expressions.

DI	RECT SPEECH: '	here a	and now' words
0	here	5	today	Α	that day	F	the next day
1	now	6	tonight	В	that night	G	there
2	this	7	last week	С	that	Н	the week before
3	tomorrow	8	next week	D	the day before	I	then
4	yesterday			E	the next week

There is often more than one way of reporting 'here' and 'now' words.

'I don't like this house.' -> She said she didn't like that house / the house / their house / the house she was visiting ...

3 Imagine these sentences were reported in another place a month later. Put in words and expressions from the box.

right away	that day	that evening	that morning	the	the day after	the day before the same nig	ght the w	eek before th	ere

- ► 'I'll see you tomorrow.' She said she'd see me ...the day after......
- 1 'My brother's arriving here today.' She said her brother was arriving
- 2 'I'll phone you this evening.' He said he'd phone
- 3 'Do you like it here?' She asked if I liked it
- 4 'My uncle died last week.' He told me his uncle had died
- 5 'This meat tastes funny.' She said meat tasted funny.
- 6 'I'm leaving now.' He told us he was leaving
- 7 'I overslept this morning.' She told him she'd overslept
- 8 'The train leaves at 11.00 tonight.' I was told the train left at 11.00
- 9 'Pete phoned me yesterday.' He said Pete had phoned him

revise the basics: tenses

After reporting expressions like he said, I asked, she thought, tenses are usually different from those in the original words (because the reporter's time is different from the original speaker's time). Verbs become more past.

ORIGINAL WORDS (DIRECT SPEECH)	REPORTED WORDS (INDIRECT SPEECH)
You look nice.	I told her she looked nice. (NOT I told her she looks nice;)
I can't swim.	He pretended he couldn't swim.
I'm learning French.	She said she was learning French.
Has he forgotten?	I wondered if he had forgotten.
John phoned.	She told me that John had phoned.
Will you marry me?	I asked him if he would marry me.

DO IT YOURSELF Complete the table.

present perfect simple past would

2 Complete the reported sentences with the correct tenses.

- 1 'I'm tired.' She said she tired.
- 2 'You play very well.' He told me I very well.
- 3 'Can you help us?' They asked if I help them.
- 4 'We're leaving.' They told us they
- 5 'She hasn't brushed her hair.' I noticed that she her hair.
- 6 'John's had an accident.' Pam rang to say that John an accident.
- 7 'I left school at fifteen.' Her letter said that she school at fifteen.
- 8 'She won't say anything.' I knew she anything.
- 9 'Nobody will know.' I thought nobody
- 10 'This letter has been opened.' I could see that the letter

Note the difference between say and tell.

Tell must have a personal object: we tell somebody something.

They told me I was wrong. (NOT They told I was wrong.) Karen told us a joke.

Say doesn't need a personal object: we say something (to somebody).

They said I was wrong. (NOT They said me I was wrong.) We said nothing to anybody.

Circle the correct answer.

- 1 I said / told John I wanted to go home.
- 2 Lucy said / told that she would buy the tickets.
- 3 I didn't say / tell anyone that I was leaving.
- 4 Why did you say / tell you were ill?
- 5 My father said / told he needed help.
- 6 Andy said / told the doctor he couldn't walk.
- 7 Everybody said / told I looked happy.
- 8 Nobody said / told me that there was a strike.

Tenses don't change after present or future reporting verbs, because there is no important change of time.

He says he doesn't want to play any more. ('I don't want ... ') I'll tell her your idea is great.

Tenses do not usually change after present perfect reporting verbs, either.

The government has announced that taxes will be raised.

We often drop that after common reporting verbs.

He said (that) he was falling in love with me. I knew (that) he was lying.

present situations He proved that the earth is/was round.

Situations that have not changed: if the original speaker was talking about a present or future situation that is still present or future when the words are reported, the tenses are sometimes not changed after a past reporting verb.

3	It's raining. (I told you)
4	You'll get your money. (I said)
5	There will be a strike. (This article I was reading said)
6	The repairs will cost £5,000. (Al told me)
7	Is Jane coming to see us? (I asked)
8	You're going to the Glasgow office. (Pat told me that)
9	You won't pass your exam. (I bet George £5 yesterday that he)
10
10	They're getting married next week. (Sue rang this morning, and she said)

We do not keep the original speaker's tenses if we do not agree with what he/she said, or if we want to show that the ideas do not come from us.

They were certain that the gods lived in the sky.
Did you hear that? She said she was fourteen!
He announced that profits were higher than forecast.
I didn't know she was ill.

revise the basics: indirect questions

Indirect questions normally have the subject before the verb.
He wanted to know when I could start. (NOT USUALLY when could I start.) I asked where the trainer and the team were staying.
Do is not used in indirect questions, and question marks (???) are not used.
I wondered how they felt. (NOT how did they feel?)
The same structure is used to report the answers to questions.
I knew how they felt.
Nobody told me why I had to sign the paper.
Turn these into indirect questions, beginning l asked. Where are my gloves?
Yes/no questions are reported with if or whether.
Yes/no questions are reported with if or whether. The driver asked if/whether I wanted to go to the town centre.
The driver asked if/whether I wanted to go to the town centre.
The driver asked if/whether I wanted to go to the town centre. We prefer whether before or in a formal style.
The driver asked if/whether I wanted to go to the town centre. We prefer whether before or in a formal style. I enquired whether she was coming by road or by air. Turn these into indirect questions, beginning I wondered. Are the children all right? wondered if the children were all right. Do they like me? Will I be ready in time? I service included or not? Can I pay by cheque? Does my hair look funny? Has the postman been? Do they speak English? Am I doing the right thing?
The driver asked if/whether I wanted to go to the town centre. We prefer whether before or in a formal style. I enquired whether she was coming by road or by air. Turn these into indirect questions, beginning I wondered. Are the children all right? I wondered if the children were all right. Do they like me? Will I be ready in time? I st there any food in the house? I service included or not? Can I pay by cheque? Does my hair look funny? Has the postman been? Do they speak English? Am I doing the right thing? I sthe meeting on Tuesday or Wednesday?

revise the basics: infinitives He promised to write.

We use infinitives to report sentences about future actions – for example promises, agreements, orders, offers, advice, suggestions, requests.

'I'll definitely write.' -> He promised to write.

'OK, I'll wait until 6 o'clock.' -> She agreed to wait until 6 o'clock.

'Do be careful, Andrew.' -> I told Andrew to be careful.

'Shall I babysit tonight?' -> Ann has offered to babysit tonight.

'You'd better think again.' -> The manager advised me to think again.

'Please don't be late.' ___ She asked us not to be late.

1 Change the sentences as shown.

	I won't tell anybody. (He promised)
1	I'll cook supper. (She offered)
	Leave early. (He advised me)
	Please don't close the door. (She asked me)
	I'll stop smoking. (She promised)
	Why don't I do the shopping? (He offered)
	You ought to tell the police. (She advised me)
	Wait outside. (I told her)
	OK, I'll pay half. (He agreed)
	Don't park outside the house. (She told me) n	We'll nay for the tickets (We offered)

The structure question word + infinitive is common.

He asked her how to make a white sauce. Don't tell me what to do.

Complete the sentences with question words and the infinitives of the verbs in the box. (There is one verb too many.) Different answers may be possible.

break come back cook give park play start / tell wear

	We'll let you know work work.
1	I don't know mah-jong.
2	Can you show me the car?
3	We don't know Oliver for his birthday.
4	I'm not sure John.
5	Do you know spaghetti carbonara?
6	I can't decide to Peter's wedding.
7	I'm leaving on Thursday, but I still haven't decided

'I told him to choose his weapons and be here at six.'

infinitives are not used after suggest or say.

He suggested trying somewhere else. (NOT He suggested to try ...)

The policeman said I mustn't park there. (NOT ... said me not to park ...)

We can use whether but not if before infinitives.

I don't know whether to go home. (NOT ... if to go home.)

indirect speech: special cases He said I'd better go.

Past tenses are changed to past perfect tenses after past reporting verbs, but only if this is necessary in order to make the time relations clear. Compare:

DIRECT SPEECH

INDIRECT SPEECH

In his letter, he said he'd seen Penny a couple

DIRECT SPEECH	INDIRECT SPEECH
I saw Penny a couple of days ago.	In his letter, he said he'd seen Penny a couple of days before.
Dinosaurs were around for 250 million years.	This guy on TV said that dinosaurs were around for 250 million years.
	(NOT had been around)

C	hange these to indirect speech.
1	I saw him once before in London. (I knew)
2	Shakespeare didn't speak French. (The professor said)
3	He died two years ago. (When I got there, I found out)
4	Three thousand years ago there were tigers in England. (It said on this TV programme)
5	Somebody threw a bomb at the Prime Minister. (It said on this morning's news)
6	The ancient Romans suffered from lead poisoning. (I read in a magazine)

Usually unchanged after past reporting verbs: past perfect, had better, would, could, should, ought, might, must. DIRECT SPEECH Ihadn't seen him before. You'd better go. She said she hadn't seen him before. He said I'd better go.

2 Change these to indirect speech.

1	Would you like a drink? (She asked me)
2	I couldn't help it. (I said)
3	We should be home about six. (They thought)
4	It might rain. (The forecast said)
5	She must be joking. (Everybody said)
6	I hadn't seen the notice. (I explained)

'I thought you'd like to know that the day after you died you won a $22.5 million lottery.'

indirect speech: more practice

T	enses. Here are some things that people thought in the past. Report them, using indirect speech.

9	'The Beatles are more popular than Jesus.' (John Lennon)
10	'Capitalism will disappear.' (Karl Marx)

2 Grammaring text. Choose the right forms to complete the text.

I didn't feel at all well yesterday, so I looked in my book (The Complete Home Doctor, 2nd Edition) to see what I 1 have / had / did. The book said it 2 is / was / would be either mononucleosis or typhoid, but it wasn't clear which, so I went to the doctor. I wanted to see Dr Gibbons - he's always very understanding - but the receptionist said he ³ isn't / wasn't / wouldn't free, so I had to see Dr Parker, one of those new young doctors. I went in and told him what I 4 have / had / did. (I always tell the doctor what I 5 have / had / did got, it saves a lot of time.) But he just started asking a lot of stupid questions. He wanted to know how old 6 I am / I was / was I, if I 7 smoke / smoked / was smoking, how much 8 I drink / I drank / did I drink, if I 9 take / took exercise, if I 10 live | lived alone, if I 11 have | had ever had mental problems, etc etc. So I told him that I 12 am / was / would be perfectly all right, except that I either 13 have / had / was having mononucleosis or typhoid, and I 14 do want / want / wanted to know which. I explained that it 15 is / was / will be urgent, because typhoid 16 is / is being / would be very infectious. And he said I 17 have / had / am having a bad case of hypochondria, and I 18 should take / should have taken / should be taking two aspirins and come back in a week if I still felt ill. And he said 19 I better throw / I'd better throw / I'd better have thrown away the book. Throw away The Complete Home Doctor? It's been in my family for generations. I don't know what they do in medical school, but they don't learn 20 how talk / how talking / how to talk to patients, and they certainly don't learn much about medicine. I'm surprised that I'm still alive.

- Some prepositions are difficult because they have more than one meaning. (A preposition in one language often has several different translations into another language.) This is really a matter of vocabulary, not grammar, but grammar books often deal with the meanings of prepositions, and we include information about some problem points in this Section.
- We also list common fixed expressions consisting of verb + preposition, noun + preposition and adjective + preposition, and other common expressions that begin with prepositions.
 (To find out what preposition to use after other nouns, verbs and adjectives, see the Oxford Advanced Learner's Dictionary, the Oxford Collocations Dictionary, or any other good dictionary.)
- The grammar of prepositions is mostly covered in other Sections:
 For -ing forms after prepositions, see page 119.

 For the position of prepositions, see pages 107 (questions), 98 (passives) and 273 (relative clauses).

Note: for phrasal verbs (verb + adverb particle), see pages 150-151.

'Before you sentence me, I'd like to remind the court that I was just passing through the building looking for a bathroom.'

'Excuse me, but I think you're in my seat.'

revise the basics: time

1) DO IT YOURSELF Look at the examples in the box and complete the rule for the use of at, in and on to talk about time.

in 2011 in June in the morning at 4.15 at lunchtime on Sunday on Monday afternoon at Christmas at the weekend

Rule

MIKE WAS BORN AT 5.30
IN THE MORNING
ON A SATURDAY
IN MARCH
IN 1986.
AND YOU?

2 DO IT YOURSELF Look at the examples in the box and complete the rule.

I'll see you next Monday. I'm not free this Thursday. I train every day. Tell me what time it starts. The exam's on my birthday. Let's meet one weekend. She phoned this evening.

Rule

Before expressions of time beginning this, next, every, one and what, we usually

- 3 Put in at, in, on or (= no preposition).
 - 1 We're not going away Easter.
 - 2 I spoke to Harry Tuesday.
 - 3 Carole was born 1994.
 - 4 We usually go to the gym the evening.
 - 5 Are you free Friday evening?
 - 6 The countryside is beautiful May.
 - 7 I'll try to see you next Wednesday.
 - 8 I don't know what time it starts.
 - 9 Everybody will be here supper time.
 - 10 There's no match this Sunday.
 - 11 I'll always remember that afternoon.

 - 18 I'm never very clear-headed the morning.
 - 19 Are you going to have a party your birthday?
 - 20 Let's go to the mountains the weekend.

revise the basics: place and movement

0

DO IT YOURSELF Look at the examples and complete the rule correctly.

I met her at a concert. Let's go to a concert. He's in London. I sent it to London yesterday.

Rule: At and in are used for distance / position / movement.

To is used for distance / position / movement.

We often use at to talk about where something happens – for example, a meeting place or a point on a journey.

We usually meet at the pub. I had to change trains at York.

Turn right at the petrol station. They kept me waiting at the embassy.

And we often use at with words for things that people do, or the places where they do them.

at a match at breakfast, lunch etc at a restaurant at work at the office at the theatre at the cinema at the station at a party at (the) college/university

At and in are often both possible. We prefer in when we are thinking more about the place itself, and not just the activity. Compare:

We had dinner at the Golden Dragon. It was very hot in the big dining room.

At is not used with the names of very big places. Compare:

We changed planes at Kennedy. We changed planes in New York. (NOT ... at New York.)

She arrived at school late. (NOT ... arrived to ...)

She arrived in London on Tuesday.

Put in in or at.

1	I'll see you the party.	6	Get off the bus Eden Square.
2	We spent two days Bangkok.	7	Joe's film crazy: he almost lives the cinema.
3	There's no heating my room.	8	You change trains Cardiff.
4	We had problems the office.	9	Let's meet my place at six.
5	I'll pick you up the station.	10	I never talk breakfast.

We use in with 3-dimensional spaces like boxes, rooms, towns or countries. We use on with 2-dimensional surfaces like floors, tables, walls or ceilings. We say that people are in clothes, and that clothes and jewellery are on people.

Put in in or on.

1	There's a spider the bath.	6	Who's the man the funny hat?
2	Put this paper the office door.	7	There's a black mark the ceiling.
3	What's that bird the roof?	8	Our football is stuck up a tree.
4	Your lunch is the table.	9	Do you want your rice a bowl or
5	She had a ring her first finger.		a plate?

4 Prepositions of movement: cross out the words that are wrong.

- across the road / the tunnel
- 1 through the gate / the stairs
- 2 down the church / the hill
- 3 under the bridge / the crowd
- 4 into the supermarket / the table
- 5 across the river / the garage
- 6 up the mountain / the piano

- 7 out of the bank / the stairs
- 8 along the corner / the river
- 9 off the car park / the table
- 10 over the shop / the wall
- 11 past the floor / the station
- 12 round the corner / the road

some preposition choices

by and until

1) DO IT YOURSELF Look at the examples in the box, and choose the best explanations of how to use by and until.

'Can you repair my watch if I leave it until Saturday?' 'No, but we can do it by next Tuesday.' You can have the car until this evening. But you must bring it back by six o'clock at the latest.

- to say that something may or may not happen, we use BY / UNTIL /(NEITHER).
- 1 to say that a situation will continue up to a certain moment, we use BY / UNTIL / NEITHER.
- 2 to say that something will happen around a certain time, we use BY / UNTIL / NEITHER.
- 3 to say that something will happen at or before a certain moment, we use BY / UNTIL / NEITHER.

In an informal style we often use till instead of until. Before a subject and verb, we can use by the time. He'll be gone by the time we get home.

Complete the sentences with by (the time) or till/until.

- 1 'Can I stay the weekend?'
- 2 'Yes, but you'll have to leave Monday midday at the latest.'
- 3 This form must be returned April 17.
- 4 We'll just have to wait he's ready to see us.
- 5 The visitors will have gone you get back.
- 6 Do you think you can finish the painting Easter?

'And returned by one o'clock. I go to lunch then.'

opposite and in front of

3 DO IT YOURSELF Look at the picture. Which is opposite the house – the bus stop or the car? Which is in front of the house?

..... is opposite the house. is in front of the house.

- Put in opposite or in front of.
 - 1 There's a supermarket my house.
 - 2 me in the queue there was a very strange-looking woman.
 - 3 I can't see the TV if you stand it.
 - 4 The lifts are directly the reception desk.
 - 5 Somebody's parked my garage door, and I can't get my car out.
 - 6 She sat down me and started talking to me.

between and among

DO IT YOURSELF Look at the examples in the box and complete the rules.

She was standing between Alice and Mary.

Our house is between the woods, the river and the village.

His house is hidden among the trees.

We were in a little valley between high mountains.

We say a group, crowd or mass of things that are not seen separately.

We say two or more clearly separate people or things.

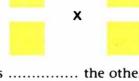

We say things on two sides.

6 Look at the diagrams. Is X between or among the other things?

1 X is the other things.

2 X is the other things.

3 X is the other things.

4 X is the other things.

Put in between or among.

- 5 This is just one problem many.
- 6 Switzerland lies France, Germany, Austria and Italy.

for and during

8 DOIT YOURSELF Look at the examples in the box. Which word tells you how long and which word tells you when?

My father was in hospital for six weeks during the summer. (NOT ... during six weeks ...) It rained during the night for two or three hours.

During tells you For tells you

9 Put in for or during.

- 1 Drinks will be served the interval.
- 2 I'll come and see you a few minutes the afternoon.
- 3 They met the war.
- 4 He said nothing a long time.
- 5 I woke up several times the night.
- 6 She studied in America two years.

verbs with prepositions Look at her.

With some verbs, we put a preposition (for, to, at etc) before an object.

Look at her! (NOT Look her!) Please listen to me. (NOT Please listen me.)

We don't use a preposition if there is no object.

Look! (NOT Look at!) Please listen. (NOT Please listen to.)

Choose the correct preposition or no preposition (-).

- 1 Let's go. We can't wait for / at / on / Margaret any longer.
- 2 I'm going to take singing lessons. Don't laugh at / for / to / -.
- 3 'She's quite wrong.' 'I don't agree to / at / with / -.'

SECTION 22 spoken grammar

GRAMMAR SUMMARY

The grammar of informal spoken English is different from the grammar of written English in some ways.

- Sentences are usually less complicated, with fewer kinds of conjunctions.
- Information is often separated more, and given piece by piece.

That woman across the road, her brother, well, I was talking to him, and he said ...

• We often leave words out if the meaning is clear.

Seen Peter? He said he'd pay, but I think he probably hasn't.

We make several kinds of short sentence with subject + auxiliary verb.

The meeting's tomorrow, isn't it?

"Didyou phone John?" 'No, I didn't."

'The holiday was great.' 'Was it? I'm so pleased.'

'I'm playing tomorrow afternoon.' 'So am I.'

Got a problem in the kitchen? We can help.

spoken sentence structure It's difficult, the exam.

The grammar of informal spoken English is different from the grammar of written English in some ways. Sentences are usually less complicated, with fewer and simpler conjunctions.

FORMAL WRITING: While the hotel was of quite a high standard, the food was disappointing. INFORMAL SPEECH: The hotel was quite good, but the food was disappointing.

Information is often separated out more, and given piece by piece - not always in the order SUBJECT-VERB-OBJECT.

The woman across the road, her brother, well, I was talking to him, and he said ...

Last Wednesday it was, I was just going to work, ...

That lecture, I thought I was going to go to sleep.

In speech we can emphasise one part of a sentence by saying it louder and on a higher pitch.

MARY sent a birthday card to the mayor. (NOT Mary's sister)

Mary sent A BIRTHDAY CARD to the mayor. (NOT a bomb)

Mary sent a birthday card to THE MAYOR. (NOT to the chief of police)

In writing, special structures have to be used to show emphasis (see pages 148-149).

It was Mary who sent a birthday card to the mayor.

dropping sentence-beginnings Must dash.

In informal speech we often drop unstressed beginnings of sentences.

This happens mainly with articles, possessives, personal pronouns, auxiliary verbs and be, demonstratives and introductory there is.

Car's running badly. (= 'The car's ...') Shoelace is undone. (= 'My shoelace ...')

Forgotten his umbrella again. (= 'He's forgotten ...')

You talking to me? (= 'Are you talking ...?') She ready? (= 'Is she ready?')

Must dash. (= 'I must dash.') Won't work. (= 'It won't work.')

Be four pounds fifty. (= That'll be ...') No reason to panic. (= 'There's no reason ...')

Put back the words that have been dropped and write the complete sentences.

1	Wife's on holiday.
2	Couldn't understand a word.
3	Seen Joe?
	Careful what you say.
	Nobody at home.
	Don't think so.
	Train's late again.
	Know what I mean?
9	Got a pen?
O	Lost my glasses

2 Make these sentences more informal by dropping words from the beginning.

10 Have you got a match?

1	I've changed my job.
	She doesn't know what she's doing.
	That'll cost you £10.
	Be careful of the flowers.
	There's no time to waste.
	The bus is coming.
	Do you speak English?
	I haven't been there.
9	He thinks he's clever.

We only drop pronouns before stressed words.

Like your tie. Haven't seen him. Can't swim.

BUT NOT Have seen him., Can swim. (Affirmative auxiliaries are usually unstressed.)

'You folks order the extra large?'

dropping words after auxiliaries 'Get up!' 'I am!'

In informal speech, we often use just an auxiliary verb instead of repeating a longer expression.
'Get up!' 'I am.' (= 'I am getting up.')
He said he'd write to me, but he hasn't. (= ' he hasn't written to me.')
Talk louder.' 'I would if I could, but I can't.'
If there is no auxiliary to repeat, we use do.
She said she would phone, and she did .
Make these contained many noticed by systims out companions symmetric as after accelling
Make these sentences more natural by cutting out unnecessary expressions after auxiliaries.
I can't see you today, but I can see you tomorrow.
1 She thinks I don't love her, but I do love her.
2 I've bought one of those tops, and Sue has bought one too.
3 'You wouldn't have won if I hadn't helped you.' 'Yes, I would have won.'
4 'That car needs cleaning.' 'It certainly does need cleaning.'
5 'You'd better phone Bill.' 'I have phoned Bill.'
6 'The photocopier isn't working.' 'Yes, it is working.'
7 She can't swim, but I can swim.
8 Phil doesn't want to go, and Celia doesn't want to go either.
2 Read the text, and then write the expressions that have been dropped.
"I've never understood how John puts up with her."
"No, I haven't ▶ either. He's a saint. He –"
"She's so rude. She just doesn't care how much she upsets people."
"She certainly doesn't ¹ . I remember –"
"And having to work with her every day, it was getting on my nerves."
"Yes, I know it was ² . I thought you –"
"I mean, I couldn't go on like that."
"Of course you couldn't 3, dear. You -"
"And then, she kept promising to take Sally to the zoo, and she never did ⁴ . Now if you make promises to children, you have to keep them, don't you ^s ?"
"Yes, of course you do ⁶ . Children –"
"So in the end, I just told her what I thought of her."
"Well done. I'm glad you did 7 . Somebody had to 8 . If you hadn't 9 , I would have 10 . I –"
"And another thing," revise the basics: question tags It's cold, isn't it?

Question tags often follow sentences in speech and informal writing.

They are used to check whether something is true, or to ask for agreement.

You haven't seen Joe, have you? This tea isn't very nice, is it?

Negative tags are usually contracted – we say for example isn't it? (NOT USUALLY is it not?) (See page 321 for details of contractions). The contracted tag for am I not? is aren't I?

Nice day, isn't it? I'm late, aren't !?

Question tags are usually negative () after affirmative () sentences, and not negative after negative sentences. We do not normally put tags after questions.

It cold. isn't it? It isn't war

It isn't warm, is it? (BUT NOT Is it cold, isn't it?)

Right (✓) or wrong (✗)?

- ▶ You're Scottish, aren't you?
- ▶ Are you ready, are you?
- 1 She can't speak Chinese, can she?
- 2 It's been raining, hasn't it?
- 3 Have they paid, have they?

- 4 The film wasn't much good, wasn't it?
- 5 It'll be dark soon, won't it?
- 6 You've made a mistake, haven't you?
- 7 I'm in time for breakfast, aren't I?
- 8 Was the weather OK, was it?

If the main sentence has an auxiliary verb or be, this is used in the tag. If not, do is used.

She can swim, can't she? You wouldn't like a puppy, would you? He gave you a cheque, didn't he?

There can be used as a subject in tags.

There's a problem, isn't there?

These are sentences from real conversations. Put in the question tags.

- 1 I'm cooking tonight,?
- 2 We're going to Mum's, then,?
- 3 Your brothers are not being kind to you today,?
- 4 I'm not quite myself,?
- 5 They weren't ready,?
- 6 She's not a baby now,?
- 7 That's the law,?
- 8 He's a lovely little boy,?
- 9 That fireman can see them, , Dave?
- 10 It must be a year now,?
- 11 It'll be all right,?
- 12 They look like big candles,?
- 13 They won't have bulbs,?
- 14 There's a light out there,?
- 15 Cathy's still got curly hair,?
- 16 She doesn't look well,?
- 17 They've been really horrible,?
- 18 I was first really,?

'Look, I'm sorry, mate – I'm only doing my  job, aren't I?'

Instead of question tags, people also say Right?, Yes? or No?

This is your coat, right? We're seeing Hazel tonight, no?

more about question tags Nobody phoned, did they?

We use they to refer to nobody/no one, somebody/someone, everybody/everyone and anybody/anyone.
Nobody phoned, did they? Someone's left the lights on, haven't they?
We use non-negative tags after words with a negative sense like never, no, nobody, hardly, scarcely, little.
She never smiles, does she? (NOT doesn't-she?) It's hardly rained all summer, has it?
We use it in question tags to refer to nothing.
Nothing can happen, can it?
Put in suitable tags. 1 Everybody's here, aren't? 6 She hardly spoke,? 2 You're never happy,? 7 Somebody's forgotten their coat,? 3 There's no milk,?? 4 Nothing matters,? 8 There's scarcely enough time,? 5 Nobody likes her, do? 9 You never wrote,?
Informal questions/requests often use negative sentence + question tag.
You haven't seen Liz around, have you? You can't lend me £5, can you?
 Change the structure. Do you know where Harry is? You don't know where Harry is, do you? Have you picked up my keys? Could you help me for a minute? Is that your brother? Can you give me a lift?
After imperatives, we can use won't you? to invite people to do things, and will/would/can/can't/could you? (informal) to tell or ask people to do things.
Do sit down, won't you? Give me a hand, will you? Shut up, can't you?
After a negative imperative we use will you? After Let's we use shall we?
Don't forget, will you? Let's have a party, shall we?
3 Complete the sentences with tags from the box.
could you? shall we? will you? won't you? would you?
1 Do have some more tea,
If a tag is a real question, it has a rising intonation: the music of the voice goes ^{up} . If the tag only asks for agreement, it has a falling intonation: the voice goes down.
The meeting's at four o'clock, Nice day, isn't:
4 Real question or not? Draw arrows (or).
1 Sweet child, isn't she? 3 This is boring, isn't it?

4 We finish at twelve, don't we?

2 That's Fred, isn't it?

revise the basics: short answers and reply questions

In conversation, we often give short answers using pronoun + auxiliary verb.
'Can he swim?' 'Yes, he can.' 'Has the rain stopped?' 'No, it hasn't.'
'Don't forget to phone.' 'I won't.' 'She likes cakes.' 'She certainly does.'
Write short affirmative (+) or negative (-) answers for these sentences. 1 'Are you ready?' - 2 'Do you speak English?' + 3 'It's too hot.' + 4 'Don't be late.' - 5 'Send me a postcard.' + 6 'Have you seen Les?' + 7 'Can you understand him?' - 8 'He plays well.' + 9 'She sounded tired.' + 10 'Say hello to Linda for me.' +
Reply questions using auxiliary verb + pronoun (like question tags) can express attention, interest or surprise.
'It was a terrible party.' 'Was it?' 'Yes,' 'We had a lovely holiday.' 'Did you?' 'Yes, we went' 'I've got a headache.' 'Have you, dear? I'll get you an aspirin.' 'John likes that girl next door.' 'Oh, does he?' 'I don't understand.' 'Oh, don't you? I'm sorry.'
Negative reply questions answering affirmative sentences can express emphatic agreement.
'It was a lovely concert.' 'Yes, wasn't it! I did enjoy it.'
'She's lost a lot of weight.' 'Yes, hasn't she?'
Read the text and then rewrite a few lines of it as a conversation, using reply questions. It was a lovely wedding. Though I didn't think much of Maggie's dress. That colour doesn't suit her at all. Anyway. I don't really go for church weddings. The service went on for ages. And I was sitting right at the back, so I couldn't hear the vicar. The music was nice, though. They played that hymn about sheep. Lovely. I must say I didn't enjoy the reception much. The food wasn't very good. And the bride's father made such a stupid speech. And I got one of my headaches. Champagne always gives me a headache. And I was sitting next to that Mrs Foster from down the road. I can't stand that woman. She's always criticising. Anyway, I must go. Nice to talk to you. It really was a lovely wedding.

revise the basics: so am I etc

So am I means 'I am too'; so does he means 'he does too'; and so on. Neither/Nor am I means 'I'm not either', and so on.

She's from Scotland, and so am I. 'I've lost their address.' 'So have I.' I can't swim, and neither can Bill. I was tired, and so were the others.
I like dancing, and so does he.
'She didn't understand.' 'Nor did I.'

1 Complete the sentences with so am I etc or neither/nor am I etc.

1	He's tall, and his sister.
2	'I haven't paid.' ' I.'
3	Penguins can't fly, and ostriches.
4	'I love this music.' ' I.'
5	'I lost my passport.' ' Nicola.'
6	I don't like her, and my friends.
7	The food was bad, and the wine.
8	Sue won't be there, and her mother.
9	'Pete looks ill.' ' you.'
10	'I wasn't surprised.' ' I.'

2 Look at the pictures, and make sentences about pairs of things using so is etc or neither/nor is etc.

The cat has got four legs, and so has the dog. The pram is not alive, and neither is the car.

We can use short sentences (subject + auxiliary verb) to say that A is not the same as B.

'I'm not ready.' 'I am.' Ann doesn't like the new neighbours, but I do.' I want to go home.' 'I don't.' The room was OK, but the food wasn't.

I want to go nome.	l don't.	The room was UK, but the rood wasn't.

appendix 3 capital letters (A, B, C etc)

We use CAPITAL LETTERS to begin the names of people, places, organisations, nationalities, languages, days, months and holidays.

Charles Dickens Shanghai Universal Export French Arabic Friday May Easter

Titles like Mr, Mrs, Miss, Doctor/Dr, Professor/Prof, General begin with capital letters.

We also use capital letters to begin the most important words in the titles of books, films etc.

A Tale of Two Cities Gone with the Wind

And we use a capital letter for the first word in a sentence, and for the pronoun I.

When I was younger I wanted to be a musician.

appendix 4 punctuation

This section summarises the most important rules of punctuation.

the basic sentence

We don't separate the basic parts of a sentence (subject and verb, verb and object, etc).

The Export Department should not have lost so much money.

(NOT The Export Department, should not have lost so much money.

OR The Export Department should not have lost, so much money.

before the basic sentence

If we put long adverbial expressions (saying when, where etc) before the basic sentence, we often use a comma (,). Compare:

Last year the Export Department should not have lost so much money.

Between January 2010 and March 2011, the Export Department should not have lost so much money.

after the basic sentence

We don't usually use commas when adverbial expressions come after the basic sentence.

The Export Department should not have lost so much money between January 2010 and March 2011.

inside the basic sentence

When adverbial expressions come between or inside parts of the basic sentence, we usually put commas before and after them.

The Export Department, between January 2010 and March 2011, lost an absolute fortune.

noun phrases

We don't usually separate a noun from the adjectives or other expressions that go with it.

the very strange men (NOT the very strange, men)

the very strange men in the London office (NOT the very strange men, in the London office)

the very strange men in the London office who run the Export Department

(NOT the very strange men in the London office, who run the Export Department)

However, we do use commas to separate non-identifying expressions (see page 275) after nouns.

Mr Sackbottle and Mr Pertwee, who run the Export Department, ...

sentences with conjunctions

We often put commas in sentences with conjunctions, especially in longer sentences. (See page 240.) Compare: Things will be different when the head of the Export Department retires.

Things will be very different after next December, when the head of the Export Department retires.

We usually use a comma if we start with the conjunction.

When the head of the Export Department retires, things will be different.

indirect speech

We don't put commas after verbs of saying, thinking etc in indirect speech.

Annie says that the Export Department is in deep trouble. (NOT Annie says, that ...)

I don't know how much they're going to lose this year. (NOT I don't know, how much ...)

We don't put question marks (?) in indirect questions.

I asked why the police were here. (NOT Lasked why the police were here?)

a useful rule: no comma before that

We don't put commas before that (conjunction or relative pronoun).

I know that the police have questioned the men that run the Export Department.

between separate sentences

Between separate sentences (with no conjunction), we use a full stop (.) or a semi-colon (;), but not a comma. Compare:

The police have been here, and they have arrested the head of the Export Department. (comma and conjunction) The police have been here. They have arrested the head of the Export Department.

OR The police have been here; they have arrested the head of the Export Department.

BUT NOT The police have been here, they have arrested the head of the Export Department:

lists

We use commas to separate the different things in a list (but not before and).

The police are questioning his wife, his sister, his girlfriend, his secretary and his secretary's boyfriend.

abbreviations (short forms of words)

We use full stops after some abbreviations, like e.g. (meaning 'for example'). Mr and Mrs have full stops in American English, but not usually in British English.

The police have also arrested some of his other associates, e.g. the head of the Marketing Department, Mrs Oliver.

quotation marks ('...' or "...")

Quotation marks are used to show direct speech (somebody's actual words).

Mrs Oliver says, 'I can explain everything.' (NOT < I can explain everything > OR - I can explain everything.)

figures

We use commas after thousands and millions, and full stops in decimal fractions.

losses of € 5,500,000 (= 'five million, five hundred thousand euros') losses of € 5.5m (= 'five and a half million euros') apostrophes (')

For apostrophes in contractions (e.g. isn't), see Appendix 5. For apostrophes in possessives (e.g. John's), see page 207.

appendix 5 contractions

Contractions like she, is represent the pronunciation of informal speech.

They are common and correct in informal writing, but are unusual in formal writing.

AFFIRMATIVE () CONTRACTIONS: PRONOUN + 'M, 'RE, 'S, 'VE, 'D, 'LL	NEGATIVE (■) CONTRACTION AUXILIARY VERB / BE + N'T	S:
I am → I'm we are → we're she is → she's he has → he's I have → I've you had → you'd you would → you'd they will → they'll	are not → aren't is not → isn't have not → haven't has not → hasn't had not → hadn't do not → don't does not → didn't will not → won't	shall not → shan't would not → wouldn't should not → shouldn't cannot → can't could not → couldn't might not → mightn't must not → mustn't need not → needn't ought not → oughtn't

With be, two negative forms are common: you're not / you aren't, she's not / she isn't etc. With other verbs, forms with n't are more common.

Am not is contracted to aren't only in questions.

I'm late, aren't !? (BUT I'm not late, NOT Faren't late.)

The contraction 's (= is or has) can be written after pronouns, nouns, question words, there and here.

It's late. Your father's gone home. How's everything?

There's the phone. Here's your money.

The contractions 're, 've, 'd and 'll are normally only written after pronouns.

Don't confuse it's (= it is/has) with its (possessive - see page 190).

The cat isn't hungry. It's only eaten half of its food.

Don't confuse who's (= who is/has) with whose (possessive - see page 190).

Who's the woman in the green coat? Whose car is that?

In very informal speech, going to, want to and got to are often pronounced like gonna, wanna and gotta.

They are sometimes written like this, especially in American English.

1 Change the words in italics to contractions.

	I am tired.
1	My car has broken down.
2	She is French.
3	She has forgotten.
4	They have finished.
5	I thought you had left.
6	We will tell you tomorrow.
7	I wish he would stop.
8	How is your mother?

9 Nobody is perfect.

10	Do you not like this?
11	You need not worry.
12	I cannot swim.
13	The door will not close.
14	It does not matter.
15	I have not forgotten.
16	I am not sorry.
17	Why are you not in bed?
18	I'm right, am I not?

Affirmative contractions are not usually stressed. When an affirmative auxiliary verb is stressed (for example at the end of a sentence) we don't use a contraction. Compare:

You're late.' 'Yes, we are.' (NOT 'Yes, we're.') 'He's forgotten.' 'I think he has.' (NOT 'I think he's.')

Negative contractions can be stressed, and are possible in any position.

'It isn't true.' 'No, it isn't.'

Rewrite the words in italics only if contractions are possible.

- Can you tell me where she is staying? ...she's
- ▶ 'Remember to take your medicine.' 'Yes, I will.'
- 1 Do you know where she is?
- 2 'Have you paid?' 'No, I have not.'
- 3 'It is not true.'
- 4 'On the contrary, it is true.'
- 5 'Would you like another cup?' 'Yes, I would.'
- 6 I do not believe they are fresh.
- 7 Telephone if you cannot come.
- 8 'Can you help me?' 'No, I cannot just at the moment.'

3 Complete the poem with the contracted forms of the expressions in the box.

cannot he has he would I will that is there is we have you have appendix 6 word order

This section summarises the most important rules of word order that you can find in other parts of the book.

sentences

The basic word order of English sentences is SUBJECT - VERB - OBJECT.

I like jazz. (NOT + jazz like.)

questions

In questions we usually put an auxiliary verb before the subject.

Did you see my email? (NOT Saw you my email ...?) Must you go?

For more details, see pages 103-107.

This does not usually happen with indirect questions.

I asked her what she wanted. (NOT lasked her what did she want.)

For more details, see page 287.

adjectives

Adjectives usually go before, not after, nouns.

an interesting book (NOT a book interesting)

Adjectives can go after be, seem and similar verbs.

I think he is unhappy.

For more details, see pages 215-219.

adverbs

Different adverbs can go in different places in a sentence.

Yesterday I stopped work early. I've just seen Peter. She's talking very strangely.

They do not usually go between the verb and the object.

I bought some shoes yesterday. (NOT I bought yesterday some shoes:)

You speak English very well. (NOT You speak very well English.)

For more details, see pages 220-222.

prepositions

Prepositions often go at the ends of questions, especially in spoken English.

Who do you work for? Where did you get that from?

For more details, see page 107.

Prepositions can also go at the ends of passive clauses and (especially in spoken English) at the ends of relative clauses.

That child needs to be spoken to.

The team that I play for has won its last six matches.

For more details, see pages 98 and 273.

exclamations

In exclamations, the adjective, adverb or object comes at the beginning of the sentence, just after how or what.

How cold it is! (NOT How it is cold!) What a stupid mistake I made! For more details, see page 145.

phrasal verbs

The objects of phrasal verbs (but not prepositional verbs) can often go between the two parts of the verb.

Shall I switch the TV off? (OR Shall I switch off the TV?)

Pronoun objects always go between the two parts of a phrasal verb.

I switched it off. (NOT I switched off it.)

For more details, see pages 150-151.

Ago follows an expression of time.

She went to bed two hours ago. (NOT ... ago two hours) enough

Enough usually goes before nouns but after adjectives and adverbs.

We haven't got enough milk. (NOT ... milk enough)

Is your coffee hot enough? (NOT ... enough hot?) I didn't study hard enough.

so do l etc

Note the word order in so do I, so am I etc (see page 312).

My sister sings in a choir, and so do I. (NOT ... soldo.)

appendix 7 numbers

A hundred, a thousand etc are less formal than one hundred etc. Compare:
I'll let you have it for a hundred pounds. We are prepared to sell the item for a sum of one hundred pounds.
We use one hundred etc when we wish to sound precise.
It costs exactly one hundred dollars.
We use one hundred etc, not a hundred etc, just before another number or inside a larger number.
1,300: one thousand, three hundred (NOT a thousand, three hundred) £1.70: one pound seventy six thousand, one hundred and eleven (NOT six thousand, a hundred)
 Write the figures in words. We drove about 100 miles. He wants £1,450 for the car. 'What's the population of your village?' 'Oh, 1,000, I suppose.' 3,144 $1.85 (on a cheque): Pay G S Hallam £1,000 only Dozen, hundred, thousand and million have no -s after a number, few or several.
three dozen bottles (NOT three dozens (of) bottles) a few hundred times six thousand miles several million pounds
In other cases we use dozens (of), hundreds (of) etc.
We've got dozens of bottles. He's done it hundreds of times. She made millions in the property market.
Put in dozen(s) (of), hundred(s) (of), thousand(s) (of) or million(s) (of). 1 He had to sign his name five
Do you know how to spell ordinal numbers? Write these in words. 1st first 2nd 3rd 4th 5th 6th 7th 8th 9th 10th 12th 16th 20th 21st 30th

appendix 8 word problems

This section tells you about some words that are difficult to use correctly. We explain some other word problems in other sections of the book: see the Index.

after We don't usually say and after, X happened. We prefer afterwards or after that.

I did the washing, and afterwards / after that I went shopping. (NOT ... and after; / went ...) ago Ago goes after a time expression. Compare ago with for and since (see page 56).

I started this job six months ago. I've been working here for six months, since October.

ago and before Ago means 'before now'. To say 'before a particular past time', we use before.

A man came to my office a few days ago. When I saw him, I knew that we had met years before.

(NOT ... we had met years ago.)

born We say that somebody is/was born (passive).

I was born in Glasgow. Children who are born in the summer start school younger than others.

both We often drop the and/or of after both.

Both (the) chairs are broken. Both (of) my brothers are out of work.

do and make Common expressions with do and make:

do work, a job, shopping, washing, ironing, business; do something, nothing, anything, everything make a suggestion, a decision, a phone call, a noise, a journey, a mistake, money, a bed, a fire, love do + ...ing Common expressions:

do the shopping; do some (a lot of / a bit of) walking, swimming, reading, climbing, sailing, skiing else We use else to mean other after something, anything, somebody, nobody etc.

Would you like anything else? I understand her, but nobody else does.

ever is used mostly in questions, or with present perfect + superlative.

 - 5) 'Can I help you, sir?' 'No, I'm just looking round, thanks.'

let and make If I let you do something, I say that you can do it. If I make you do it, I say that you must. After let and make, we use object + infinitive without to.

My parents let me leave school. But they made me get a job.

quite often comes before an article.

It was quite a good film.

rather often comes before an article.

We've had rather a difficult year.

see, look and watch We can see something without trying. When we look at something, we want to see it.

I saw Joanna at the station yesterday. Look at that sunset! (NOT Look that sunset!)

We often use can with see.

If you look out of the window you can see John working in the garden.

We watch things that move, change or happen.

I hardly ever watch TV. Did you watch the match last night?

Can you watch the children for a few minutes?

still, yet and already We use still to say that something is continuing; yet to ask if it has happened (or to say it hasn't); already to say it has happened earlier than we expected.

Pete's still in the bathroom. 'Has Carl phoned yet?' 'No, not yet.'

I've already done three hours' work, and it's only nine o'clock.

than, as and that Use than after comparatives (see page 229); as in the structure as ... as (see page 231); that after say, think etc and as a relative pronoun (see page 268).

He's older than me. My hands are as cold as ice. I think that you're wrong.

Where's the bread that I bought?

think We often use so after think. Don't use an infinitive after think.

'Are we ready?' 'I think so.' 'Is Peter in?' 'I don't think so.'

I'm thinking of changing my job. (NOT I'm thinking to change ...)

very and too Too means 'more than we want'; very doesn't.

'This curry's very hot.' 'Yes, a bit too hot for me.' 'Oh, it's OK for me.'

wait We often use wait for with object + infinitive (with to).

I'm waiting for my sister to phone.

whom In a very formal style, we use whom as an object in questions and relative clauses.

Whom did they arrest? For whom did she work? The man whom they elected did a very bad job.

In an informal style, who is more normal in questions, and that (OR nothing) in relatives.

Who did they arrest? Who did she work for? The man they elected did a very bad job.

why and because Why asks for a reason. Because gives a reason.

'Why are you laughing?' 'Because John has just said something very funny.'

Oxford English Grammar Course

Learn and practise the grammar you need to speak and write in English.

- Short grammar explanations are easy to remember. Colour makes the grammar clear.
- Clear simple examples show how the grammar works.

A plane has crashed in Yorkshire. The Prime Minister has met business leaders. 2 When we give or ask for more past details, we change to the simple past.

It came down in a field outside York. They talked for four hours.

 Texts, articles, quotations and poems use the grammar.

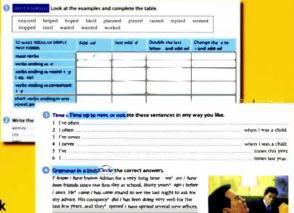

time to tidy up

Most scentists their stalling are stalling a very now and then you decide it's time to tidy up, don't you? Because you just can't find anything. So you pick up all the stuff that's been lying around on the floor since Adam was a lad. You throw out the old magazines that you're never going to read again. You give back the books and music that you borrowed from the people upstairs when you were all much younger. You take down your old posters and put up the new ones you bought three years ago to replace them. You sort out the papers on your desk, arrange some of them in systematic-looking piles, and throw away the others. Finally you put on some relaxing music, pour yourself a drink, and sit back with a feeling of satisfaction. A good job done. Only one small problem, which you slowly discover over the next few days: you just can't find anything.

• Hundreds of exercises practise the grammar.

- Internet exercises and grammar-and-vocabulary work
- Tests in the book and online

About the authors

Michael Swan and Catherine Walter are experts in English and language teaching. Michael is the author of Practical English Usage. Catherine is a Lecturer in Applied Linguistics at Oxford University. Their well-known books include The Good Grammar Book and How English Works (the basis for Oxford English Grammar Course Basic and Intermediate).

Pronunciation for grammar CD-ROM practises rhythm, stress and intonation. Listen, think, repeat and record.

Online exercises take you from practising grammar to using grammar.
